

Klan Organ Prints Governor's Address At Klonvocation

Complete Text of Speech Which Has Aroused Widespread Interest Now Made Public.

WILSON AND TUMULTY SUBJECT OF ATTACK

Walker Says Catholics Got Central War Camp Locations While Protestants Were Barred.

Complete text of Governor Clifford Walker's address before the national Klonvocation of the Ku Klux Klan at Kansas City on September 23 is published in the current issue of the "Imperial Night-Hawk," official organ of the Klan.

Governor Walker Monday admitted for the first time that he was "the governor of a great state" referred to in news dispatches as having addressed the national Klonvocation. In addition, he declared that the address was not religiously controversial, and added that he would be glad of the opportunity to make the identical speech before any Catholic organization at any time he was asked to do so.

Perhaps the most sensational feature of the address is the following reference to the late president, Woodrow Wilson, and his private secretary for eight years, J. P. Tumulty, of whom the governor said:

"It is a different thing, an infinitely different thing, when a Catholic secretary of a sympathetic president so manipulates the chicanery of politics that he will place in the center of every national war camp a Catholic church, and drive outside of the border of that camp, on the back streets, in the back yard, on the alleys, every Presbyterian, every Methodist, and every Baptist, and every other Protestant church."

The full text of the address, excepting poetic extracts, follows:

"Society must be that solid, and narrow vision of the klanism man at this hour cannot hear the footfalls of the millions of American boys and girls, who are following after us. So, for my contribution to this hour, I would suggest if our order is to be perpetuated, along with the others, we must begin today to build bridges across the chasms that lie in the pathway of the American youth of tomorrow."

"I have time to suggest but two or three chasms: The abysmal chasm of ignorance, that has with its handmaiden, superstition, prejudice and passion."

"The answer to all the problems of America is education. You train the youth to do right, and all our problems, civil and political, will be solved. Train men and women to think straight, then bishwism, radicalism and all other isms will pass away."

"Calls for Peace." "Train him to think straight and a man will treat his neighbor fair and will never rest until a neighbor treats his neighbor fair, and when that system is carried out to its last analysis the spirit of love, peace and good will will overflow the boundaries of America and will go on and on until every nation on the globe finds the same spirit to dominate and control, and then war will cease, and we will have brought the world to which we belong to God."

"In God's name, brethren, let's at this hour dedicate our lives at least to laying the foundation, of building the bridge across the chasm of ignorance and superstition and hatred and passion in this convention assembled."

"The next chasm, and one closely associated and aligned with it, is the chasm of isolation. We need to build bridges across it."

LA FOLLETTE GETS AID FROM SOVIET CLAIMS O'CONNOR

Shipping Board Head Declares Labor Payrolls Padded With Names of Political Agents.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Buffalo, N. Y., October 15.—Thomas V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board and for years head of the Longshoremen's union, asked an audience here tonight if any one in "absolute authority" would deny that a large amount of money has been sent from Russia through Mexico to strengthen the cause of Senator La Follette and Wheeler, the independent national ticket.

"How much money has been sent here by soviet Russia," he asked, "to win this fight and bring about uncertainty in this country, the same as in their own country?" Mr. O'Connor spoke at length on the connection of union leaders with the La Follette-Wheeler campaign and asserted that "members of labor organizations are not going to stand for having their vote delivered by national officers or local representatives."

LACK OF BRAINS TERMED REQUISITE FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

Old-Time Governors Not Elected on Ku Klux Klan Record, Judge Candler Says.

EMORY MEN INDORSE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Judge Beck and Mrs. Cobb Address Agnes Scott Gathering--Arnold Plays Radicals.

"No brains, no principles, no courage, and rich kin-folks are the qualifications today for men aspiring to public office in Georgia," according to Judge John S. Candler.

This statement was made to a mass meeting of students of Emory university Wednesday night and was part of the first political speech Judge Candler has made in 28 years. He addressed the students on issues in the presidential contest from a democratic viewpoint.

"When Georgia chose Alexander H. Stephens as her governor, it did not put into office a man who was a member of the Ku Klux Klan and who did not believe in anything," Judge Candler continued. "We have not a single man in public office in this state who can stack up with the men who were elected at that time. Big men simply don't go into politics any longer."

The address of Judge Candler was delivered at the formation of the Emory university Davis-Bryan club, of which John W. Weekes has been made chairman. Another speaker of the meeting was Reuben Arnold, prominent Atlanta lawyer. At the close of the meeting a resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the candidacy of John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, and a telegram to this effect was sent to Mr. Davis at Quincy, Ill.

Agnes Scott Meeting. At the same time a similar mass meeting was held at Agnes Scott college, the speakers being Judge Marcus Beck, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Betty Cobb, of Carrollton. Judge Beck's subject was "The Dangers of the Election of La Follette," while Mrs. Cobb paid high tribute to Davis and urged that he be supported.

Mr. Arnold at Emory also paid his respects to La Follette, saying that if the main plank in his platform is put into effect, which would give congress power to overrule the supreme court, the country would find itself in a condition of chaos.

"In the old days platforms were used to stand on, not to ride into office on," declared Judge Candler. "What a fall we have had from men like Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson to men like Jimmie Cox and Calvin Coolidge. The democratic party can thank kind Providence that it could not reach a two-thirds majority until it got to John W. Davis, the ablest and best-fitted man for the office in the United States today."

Scores Coolidge. He characterized President Coolidge as coming from a section where selfishness, narrowness and bigotry abound, and as being a king in the possession of all these attributes.

"Coolidge is such a little man," said Mr. Candler, "that you could chew him up and swallow him and never know it."

Mr. Arnold, in warning his hearers

KILLING BELIEVED JOB OF CHAPMAN

Escaped Bandit's Picture Identified in Bank Hold-up and Killing in Pennsylvania.

Chambersburg, Pa., October 15.—Search for the slayer of Private Francis L. Haley, of the state police, who was killed yesterday on the Lincoln highway, near here, by a man believed to have been the bandit who shortly before held up the Abbottstown state bank, resolved itself tonight into a systematic tramp by squads of state troopers and posses from surrounding counties of the mountainous regions, where earlier in the day an abandoned and partly burned automobile was found.

The burned car was the only tangible clue developed by the day's activities. It had been sprinkled with gasoline before being set afire.

The ashes of what was once a black handbag and several bottles equipped with corks and chemist's test tubes, used by yeomen to handle high explosives, were found near the burned machine.

Later developments point to Gerald Chapman, notorious escaped bandit, as the man sought. Attendants at a gasoline filling station at Abbottstown, when shown photograph of Chapman, identified him as the driver of the car.

H. R. H. Gets in at Fox's Death Despite Tumble From Horse

Toronto, October 15.—H. R. H., the Prince of Wales, Canadian ranchman and royal cowboy, left the outline of the royal left shoulder and ear delicately imprinted in the spongy sod of a Canadian meadow when a nervous brown gelding, called Killaire, flipped the future king of England from the saddle to the ground in full view of 80 members of the Toronto Hunt club who had arranged to stifle a fox for the prince's pleasure. It was the prince's first cropper of his American tour.

The tumble came Wednesday afternoon at the second obstacle in the wake of the flying fox. Wales took the lead when the hunt got away and Killaire cleared the first fence easily, carrying the prince well ahead. Fifty yards beyond this upright barrier the meadow shouldered away abruptly to a drop of about five feet.

Killaire still was thinking of fences. Instead of jumping down, the horse tried to jump over. Landing with a jar and an equine grunt, he spun H. R. H. through an arc of complacent Canadian sunshine and onto the ground into an altogether unroyal posture.

Members of the hunt were surprised and frightened, but it was old stuff to Wales. Whether or not the book of etiquette says down what should be done in such circumstances, Wales demonstrated that after being pitched over the ears of a Canadian hunter the well-dressed young man, if he would offend no one and prove his freedom, simply leaps to his feet and

PARTY JACK-POTS IN FOR EXPOSURE BY 'SLUSH' PROBE

Surprises Promised When Public Learns Who 'Pays Piper' and Where Big Lumps Come From.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES. Washington, October 15.—A new type of campaign financing is expected to come out of the investigation into party funds which begins in Chicago Thursday under the direction of Senator Borah, of Idaho, who can be counted on to follow the dollars back to their sources, as he has promised.

For the first time the public should get a fairly accurate picture of how campaigns are financed. They will find out who is paying the piper, and from what source the larger lumps are coming, also to what extent the rank and file of voters are chipping into the pot. Leaders of all three political movements have given assurances that detailed reports will be made.

Surprises Promised. This publicity is expected to give impetus to a movement already discussed to finance presidential campaigns by the people themselves in smaller contributions. For, despite the scare thrown into campaign financiers by certain things which leaked out of the investigation earlier this year, it can be stated, reasonably safely, that there will be some surprises in the list of donors made public and the amounts.

With a fairly "hard-boiled" committee doing the investigating, under the leadership of Senator Borah, it is assured that the probe will be thorough. There are two democrats on the committee, Caraway, of Arkansas, and Bayard, of Delaware; one former-labor member, Shipstead, of Minnesota; and one other republican, Jones, of Washington.

La Follette Forced Probe. This particular investigation was called, of course, to go into the charges of a "slush fund" made by Senator La Follette against the republicans. The senator was challenged by the republicans to prove his charge. He has accepted the challenge, and will be represented by his counsel, Frank P. Walsh. Because of a similar charge against the republicans in 1920, the investigation

CHURCH, NOT LAW, BRINGS REFORMS SAYS COOLIDGE

President Describes Religion as Foundation of Government and Mother of Statutes.

STATUTE IS MEMORIAL TO CIRCUIT RIDER

Life and Work of Francis Asbury in Prerevolutionary Days Prepared Men for Freedom.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, October 15.—In the presence of President Coolidge and leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church of this country and Canada, the equestrian statue of Francis Asbury, "pioneer Methodist bishop in America," was unveiled here today.

President Coolidge in an address reviewed the missionary work of the bishop in this country in its early days and declared it was largely a result of the preachings of Asbury, his associates and other religious organizations that "our country has developed so much freedom and contributed so much to civilization."

Declaring religion to be the foundation of government in this country, the president declared that it is based on rather than law for social reforms. "Tribute to 'Circuit Rider'."

The exercises, presided over by Bishop John W. Hamilton and Bishop William F. McDowell, concluded a two-day program in commemoration of the "circuit rider" bishop, who came to this country in 1771 and, traveling by horseback some 6,000 miles a year, preaching during his life about 16,500 sermons.

Mrs. Kathryn Watson Van Ness, of Baltimore, pulled the cords which unveiled the American flag draped about the statue while the United States army band played "The Star-Spangled Banner." The president, accompanied by C. Bascom Slemph, secretary, arrived before the ceremonies opened and remained on the platform until "taps" had been sounded at the conclusion.

Accepted By Government. Bishop McDowell formally presented the statue to the government, on behalf of which it was accepted by Colonel C. O. Sherrill, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

"We cannot depend upon the government," the president declared, "to do the work of religion. An act of congress may indicate that a reform is being or has been accomplished, but it does not itself bring about a reform. The government of a country never gets ahead of the religion of a country."

Religion was described by the president as the foundation of this government. It is as a result of the preaching of Bishop Asbury, his associates and other religious organizations, he declared, that "our country has developed so much freedom."

"It is well to remember this," he

JURY WILL PROBE DEATH OF CHILD

Will Hear Details Friday of How Car of Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Sr., Fatally Injured Little Girl.

Circumstances connected with the death of Mary Elizabeth Lunsford, 5-year-old girl who was fatally injured last Wednesday by an automobile driven by Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Sr., will be aired before the Fulton county grand jury Friday, it was learned Wednesday in the solicitor general's office.

The child was struck down by Mrs. Candler's automobile in front of the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lunsford, on Pace's Ferry road. The little girl was rushed to Piedmont sanitarium, where she died early the following morning.

Mrs. Candler expressed deep regret over the accident, but stoutly declared that the child ran suddenly and directly in front of her machine, and she was unable to avoid striking her. She told Plennie Miner, special investigator for Solicitor John A. Boykin, that she "couldn't have stopped quicker if it had been her own child," Mr. Miner said Wednesday.

Mrs. Candler was prostrated with grief for several days. She told investigators in several different interviews that her car was traveling at a rate of about 20 or 25 miles an hour. The child ran from the side of the road at Mrs. Candler's right, and was struck down by the left front wheel.

Lodged in Prison, Aged Confederate Charges Frame-Up

ALL EXCEPT 203 STUDENT STRIKERS BACK AT CLEMSON

Classwork May Be Resumed Today—Time Marked Until Trustees Meet Monday.

Anderson, S. C., October 15.—Only 203 of approximately 500 cadets of Clemson college, who late yesterday walked out as a protest against the suspension of the president of the senior class and certain conditions in the college mess hall, were missing from the barracks late tonight, according to information received here from the school.

Many of the striking cadets returned during the day, and college officials stated tonight that they expected more to return tomorrow when, they said, class work will be resumed as usual. About 750 students attended chapel this morning, it was stated. The enrollment is approximately 1,000.

The situation at the school was reported quiet tonight, with students and officials marking time pending the outcome of the meeting of the board of trustees, which is to be held Monday night at the college.

Although it was stated that the students plan to press their demand for more and better food, for the engagement of a matron for the mess hall, and for reinstatement of all students who left the college, it was reported here that the cadets have withdrawn their request for the reinstatement of R. E. (Butch) Holoban, who was suspended for one year following his trial on a charge of drinking whisky.

Holoban was president of the senior class and a member of the Clemson football team. Acting President S. B. Earle, in a statement issued today after a meeting with a committee of cadets representing the several classes, said that he was "willing to state that no punishment will be given members of the senior class for having signed the petition for the reinstatement of Holoban."

With reference to the punishment for the strike, he stated that the college, he stated that he was not "willing at this time to make a recommendation to the board of trustees," but would probably do so at the meeting Monday.

REPUBLICAN ROW NEAR IN GEORGIA

Storm in State Central Committee Near Breaking Point, Members Grudgingly Admit.

A storm has broken in the ranks of the republican state central committee of Georgia, it was indicated Wednesday, when it was learned that serious charges against one of the committee's most prominent members were being investigated.

Throughout Wednesday various officials of the committee were in conference at headquarters at 61 Forsyth street, and several meetings were scheduled to be held Wednesday night. Members of the committee admitted that an investigation of charges against a republican official were underway, but refused to comment. They did, however, state that the matter was under investigation, and that in all probability a formal announcement would be made Thursday.

NEW ANAESTHETIC FREE FROM HEART AND LUNG EFFECTS

Wurzberg, Germany, October 15. "Narcylein" is the name of a new anaesthetic discovered by Prof. C. J. Gauss, of this city, and H. Wieland, of Koenigsberg. It is a mixture of acetylene gas of utmost purity with a sufficient quantity of oxygen to enable the patient to breathe.

"Narcylein" is said to be free from the detrimental effect on the heart and lungs caused by ether and chloroform, and its application is not restricted as to time. During a recent operation, in which "narcylein" was used, a record of 3 1/2 hours anaesthesia was established.

Arrest and Incarceration of Ellis Follows Stormy Session of Soldiers' Home Board.

OFFICIALS PLANNING LUNACY PROCEEDINGS

Old Veteran Declares Enmity of Superintendent McAllister Responsible for Move Against Him.

W. A. Ellis, 81 years old, a Confederate veteran and for years an inmate of the Old Soldiers' home, spent Wednesday night in the Fulton county jail, taken there on orders of officials of the home on charges of lunacy, following a stormy meeting of the board of trustees of the home earlier in the day.

Ellis was brought before the board of trustees charged by Superintendent W. E. McAllister with insubordination. It was later, and the lunacy charges were said, preferred after a heated altercation between the old Confederate and a member of the board. Mr. Ellis, however, denied that any blows were struck and said he had merely shown his vigorous resentment when called "a liar."

Ellis charges that the lunacy accusation against him is a frame-up on the part of Superintendent McAllister, who, he says, has threatened to refer similar charges against other old soldier inmates of the home. Members of Mr. Ellis' family, who reside on East Fourteenth street, stated Wednesday night that several days ago he visited them and at that time declared that a scheme was on foot among certain officials at the home to declare six or eight of the aged inmates dangerously insane and have them committed to the state insanity sanitarium at Milledgeville, and asked that steps be taken to protect him and others against such a fate.

Charges Retaliation. He stated his belief that this procedure was planned against all veterans who had testified concerning alleged mistreatment at the home during the recent investigation by a legislative committee, and others who had incurred the enmity of Superintendent McAllister and attendants at the home.

Ellis was not a witness at the recent legislative investigation of the soldiers' home, though he was subpoenaed by those pushing charges against Superintendent McAllister. These charges accused McAllister of misappropriating property of the home for his personal use and mistreatment of inmates by officials in charge of the home. The special committee of the legislature which heard these charges has not yet brought in its report, the resolution authorizing the investigation specifying that it shall be made at the next session of the assembly.

According to reports of members of the board of trustees, the session held Wednesday developed several heated arguments. An attempt was made, it is reported, by those members of the board who have supported Superintendent McAllister to pass resolutions indorsing his administration of the home's affairs and condemning members of Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, who had pressed charges against him.

However, it is stated, when other members of the board threatened publication of new charges against the superintendent and others, the resolutions were dropped without being put to a vote.

Captain R. DeT. Lawrence, president of the board, told a Constitution reporter Wednesday night that Mr. Ellis has threatened Superintendent McAllister and one of the nurses at the home and that he had been sent to the Fulton jail because he was believed dangerous. Captain Lawrence said that a writ of lunacy would be sought at once and an effort to have Ellis committed to Milledgeville. Captain Lawrence stated that two other inmates of the home were brought before the trustees on charges of having violated rules of the institution but that, on their promise to observe all regulations in the future, these two were merely reprimanded. Mrs. John A. Perdue, chairman of Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., and a member of the board, refused to discuss proceedings at the meeting, saying that she preferred to "keep out of it." However, she expressed utmost astonishment when informed that the facts of the meeting were known, saying, "What have the newspapers learned of this already?"

Declines Statement.

Mrs. J. W. Hollingsworth, chairman of the Fulton chapter, U. D. C., also a member of the board, also refused to comment, saying that she did not wish to become involved in the controversy which brought on the legislative investigation and which, leaders in the prosecution state, has by no means reached an end.

Mr. Ellis declared Wednesday night in the tower hospital that he did not know the nature of specific charges on which he had been brought before the board. He said that Superintendent McAllister accused him of "insubordination," but in what particular he did not specify. He said he could remember no incident which could properly be classed as insubordination.

He admitted, however, that he had not been friendly toward the superintendent and said that McAllister had not provided for him and other inmates with sufficient bed covering, although the state provided plenty of funds for this purpose. He said he had been forced to buy blankets with his own money and accused McAllister of appropriating to his own use money which should have been paid to him as reimbursement for these blankets. He said that after the legislative investigation he had told the superintendent he thought he should resign, but denied emphatically that he had ever made any threats against anyone.

No Blows Struck.

During the hearing of Ellis before the board, it is reported that the charges leveled against him and he himself admits that he vigorously resented them, but declares that no blows were struck.

The charges of insanity, it is understood, were made by one member of the board, and the aged veteran was immediately turned over to two county policemen who were at the home.

He was brought to Fulton tower early in the afternoon by Officers Riley and Peacock, of the county police forces.

Superintendent McAllister declined Wednesday night to discuss the affair.

ZR-3 INSTALLED IN NEW HOME

people, and an American name, which is yet to be selected, will be painted in enormous characters along her prow.

Personnel Invited By Wilbur. The entire personnel of the ZR-3, both German and American, have been invited to Washington by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who will welcome and congratulate them officially. Some of the officers and men left for Washington Wednesday night. Others will leave Thursday.

The ZR-3's record for a continuous flight was 5,006 miles in 80 hours and 45 minutes. Previous records were the French dirigible Dixmude's trip of 4,500 miles in 1923, and 3,500 miles by the Zeppelin L-59 during the war.

The German flag flew over an American city for the first time in history as the craft passed over Boston early in the morning and followed on down the coast over New York to Lakehurst.

Thousands were late to work, school and even to bed in New York as she sailed over the metropolis. The station at Lakehurst, where, with the 32 men who brought her across, she was greeted by the enthusiastic field force and a great throng of hero-worshippers.

Sets New Record

"Gentlemen, a new world's record," exclaimed Dr. Eckner as he stepped from the cabin of the Zeppelin, "five thousand miles of continuous flight." "The first part of our voyage was fine," he said. "The last part was full of heavy weather. From 3 a. m. Tuesday to 5 a. m. today we battled against the weather with a velocity of 55 to 60 miles an hour."

"We changed our course from the direct line we were pursuing from the Azores to Lakehurst because we found ourselves heading into a south-west wind, which was rising, and a small low pressure area."

Child Unable To Come. Probably one of the unhappiest children in the United States Wednesday was Miss Betty Lou Kennedy, three-year-old daughter of Major Frank M. Kennedy, who represented the army on board the ZR-3. Major Kennedy stepped from the dirigible proudly bearing a big walking doll which he had brought especially for Betty Lou, but it appeared that Betty Lou had been ill and could not come from her home in Aurora, Ill. Major Kennedy's wife and mother were there, however, and they will take the big doll back to Betty Lou.

PRESIDENT EBBERT SENDS CABLE OF FELICITATION.

Berlin, October 15.—President Ebert, of Germany, today sent a cablegram of felicitation to Dr. Hugo Eckner, director of the Zeppelin company, who is in command of the dirigible ZR-3. The German president hailed the cruise as an historic achievement, and expressed the hope that the airship's flight might serve to advance free and peaceful competition among all the nations of the world.

The German government has decided to refrain from a public demonstration in celebration of the successful crossing of the Atlantic by the ZR-3. It is at first had been planned to display flags on the public buildings in celebration of the event, but this decision was altered because of the fact that there is no intention of a possible rescinding of the order to destroy the Friedrichshafen plant. It is understood that the change in plans followed a meeting of party leaders and cabinet members.

FRENCH FEEL PLANT SHOULD BE DISMANTLED.

Paris, October 15.—The French reaction to the successful flight of the ZR-3 is a feeling that Germany should be called upon immediately to dismantle the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, as provided by the treaty of Versailles. The French government, however, is understood to be reluctant to place before the ambassadors' council at this moment, because of the immense interest aroused in America over the arrival of the dirigible.

The question whether Germany shall be allowed to build any more Zeppelins as large as the ZR-3 is within the province of the ambassadors' council to decide. The council, with great reluctance and after six months' insistence by the American ambassador, gave permission to build the ZR-3. It is being understood by all the governments represented on the council that this was an exception which could not be taken in the future as a precedent.

ORGANIZATION OF CREW TO MAN ZR-3 BEGUN.

Washington, October 15.—Organization of an American crew to take charge of the ZR-3 was begun today in the bureau of naval aeronautics, but beyond that no plans have been made for immediate operation of the ship.

Under the German contract, 11 members of the crew which brought her over will "stand by" at least three months to assist in the training.

When an efficient operating force has been organized, the department will take up a program of tests to include long cross-country flights over proposed commercial routes with freight and passengers. It is understood that commercial firms may be asked to bid for the privilege of operating the Zeppelin during this experimental period.

COOLIDGE IS FIRST TO CONGRATULATE ECKNER.

Washington, October 15.—President Coolidge today congratulated the commander of the ZR-3 on the successful completion of his record-breaking flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst.

Word of the landing of the craft was given to the president within a few minutes after she had come to the ground at the Lakehurst airfield and the president immediately dispatched a message to Dr. Hugo Eckner, who was charged with her delivery to the United States.

In other government quarters, especially at the navy department, where constant vigil had been held since the ship rose from her German starting point, great enthusiasm and relief was evident at her safe arrival.

President Coolidge termed the performance of the ZR-3 an epochal achievement.

MEXICANS RELEASE CALIFORNIA MINER

Redondo Beach, Cal., October 15. A message was received this noon by Dr. C. W. Wade, father-in-law of Paul Yewell, who was kidnapped by Mexican bandits near Parol, that the mining man had been released. The message was from E. A. Stout, superintendent of the San Francisco Mines, Inc.

Germany Wildly Celebrates

EARLY WAR SUCCESSES OFFER ONLY COMPARISON

Safe Arrival Here of ZR-3

BY ERIC KEYSER.

Berlin, October 15.—From Flensburg to Dresden and from the Polish frontier to the Belgian border, Germany wildly celebrated the safe arrival in the United States of the ZR-3, the 120th and the last of the giant ships that first were conceived in the mind of old Count Zeppelin, of Friedrichshafen.

In the coffee shops and wine taverns of Berlin, in the restaurants and beer gardens of every German city, in the churches, in the streets, the unleashed enthusiasm of a nation long divorced from united popular clamor raised a racket to the skies.

Bells tolled throughout the land. From the doors and windows of beer rooms rumbled a throaty chorus of "Hoehs," punctuated and emphasized by the thump-clump of sturdy, empty beer mugs as they were lifted repeatedly and smacked down against the scarred table tops.

The celebration was comparable only to those that followed Germany's earlier war successes. The cabinet crisis was forgotten. Political wrangles, the mounting price of bread, jealousies and cares were swept out of mind as the nation dropped work to mark the triumph of a German aircraft.

Cabarets were jammed with celebrants who were kept busy stirring the gas from their champagne so that they might be ready to rise and hoot and drink as the messengers of the ZR-3's progress came in over loud speakers.

In tiny Friedrichshafen, where the village band turned out last Sunday to pomp-pah-omp a farewell to the fliers, a mad burst of enthusiasm began when the village burzumaster declared a holiday, after the airship's arrival off the American coast.

A gray-green old cannon, left over from the war, roused the villagers to the enormity of the day with 125 bellying roars of pride. One shot was fired for each of the 125 Zeppelins constructed here.

The Weibels, the Swabian name for womenfolk, of the crew went and thanked God for the safety of their husbands, sons and sweethearts. Pictures of the Zeppelin engineers in the town hall were wreathed. "Gott se dank," faltered the women, and added, "der Deutsche Gott." It was "the good old true German God," to whom these thanks went up.

Many of the women had seen their menfolk ascend from Friedrichshafen during the war, bound for London mostly, and many had never returned. In the heat of celebration, an unaccustomed democracy came to the village. In the restaurants and cafes, high officials of the Zeppelin company had their beer or sparkling, ruby wine at the same tables with the workers.

For Germany, the flight was a proof of German ability and efficiency that the world cannot ignore.

Two-Foot Rip in Gas Cells

Only Peril to ZR-3 on Trip

Water Supply Ran Short, Causing Crew To Go Unwashed and Unshaven Most of Trip.

Lakehurst, N. J., October 15.—Peril threatened the ZR-3 but once during her unparalleled flight to the United States. The threat of possible disaster developed when a rip was discovered in one of the great dirigible's gas cells.

The rip, which was two feet long, was patched up immediately, but if it had not been discovered through the watchfulness of the ZR-3's men enough air might have entered the cell to diminish the lifting power of the craft and to form a dangerous mixture with the hydrogen gas inside, already known to be unsafe.

The only actual "calamity," however, befell the crew when the water supply ran short and those on board were forced to go unwashed and unwashed.

Revealed in Log of Trip.

These incidents are revealed in the log of Captain G. W. Steele, the ranking American naval officer during the flight from Friedrichshafen. Steele's log presents a detailed and graphic account of the experiences and impressions of the record trip.

"Cape Cod was passed aboard at 3:15 a. m., and soon afterward the ship was sailing over Boston," Steele wrote. "Millions of lights! If one looked closely downwards, one could see the buildings, but looking slantwise, nothing but lights."

Many dirigible experts believe that Steele's sensations will be duplicated by those of scores of Americans who may be making trans-Atlantic trips by air within a few years.

Excerpts From Log.

Other excerpts from Log. Captain Steele's log follow:

"The 12th of October came in, a foggy day. When the hangar doors were opened, about 6 o'clock, there was a blue fog outside; but things were better. The ship had been carefully trimmed and the temperature was better, that is, colder. At 6:25, the ground crew started to take the ship out, and at 6:35, the engines were started and we were off."

"There is a queer thing about fog. When you are on the ground, you are in the fog; when you rise above it, you are above the clouds. A fog, in fact, is a cloud on the ground. So the ship rose through the fog and came out above the clouds. The crests of the higher hills projected above the clouds, like islands in the sea, and when they were recognized, the pilot would check his course."

"When the clouds at last permitted a view of the ground, we saw France. We had gone through the pass near Belfort, and were heading for the Bay of Biscay."

Reached Atlantic Ocean.

"At half past three, we passed over the mouth of the Gironde river to the Bay of Biscay. It had taken us only nine hours from Friedrichshafen to reach the Atlantic, averaging over 60 miles an hour."

"While over the land, flying low, an airship is subject, to some extent, to the motions of the various air currents through which she passes. The sun was shining brightly and we were passing over varied countries so the ship felt the effect of the conflicting currents of air. In addition, we were near the ground—500 or 1,000 feet—and the movement of air, or wind, across the hills, which were quite prominent, caused additional eddies. The result was a gentle roll and pitch, but not uncomfortable, and, what is more, the passenger cabin is practically free from vibration."

"When we reached the sea, the air above it being still, the bumpy motion ceased."

Men Take Naps.

"At 4 o'clock, when the watch was relieved, the men stretched out comfortably and began to bank up sleep against their night watches. Some of the more energetic ones played a tune on the phonograph, but this met with disapproval. Evening fell over a calm sea, with a clear sky, with just enough red in the west to be a sailor's delight. During the night, the course and speed were checked occasionally by sighting on torch beams dropped from the ship."

"When the end of our watch period came we found the berth very comfortable, and enjoyed undisturbed sleep."

"At 2:20 (on the 13th) we reached the southern end of Terceira Island, and traversed its south coast. Never have I seen a sight to equal that part of this island. The fields and several square miles are laid out in a patchwork fashion separated by walls, and as no two adjacent fields are planted or cultivated alike, or are the same shape, the whole forms a mosaic of marvelous beauty. But you must be in the air to see it."

Rip Is Discovered.

"Today, something happened which must be carefully watched during all such up and down maneuvers. Upon returning to flying height, which was at this time about 1,000 feet, a rip about two feet long was discovered in the lower part of one of the gas cells. This was immediately repaired, and the result was nothing worse than a small amount of air finding its way into the cell to mix with the hydrogen and reduce its purity. If, however, the hole had been larger, or had not been so soon discovered, enough air might have entered the cell to form a dangerous mixture of gas, and also to reduce the lifting power of the cell. It is, therefore, standard practice to have men carefully inspect the bottom of the gas cells—the only part they can see—during each considerable gain or loss of altitude by the airship."

"Calamity in another form overtook us earlier in the day. The wash water gave out. We have joined the ranks of the unwashed and unshaven. The commissary officer promises to ration sufficient drinking water for a shave apiece just before landing, if a land soon enough. He is meanwhile furnishing soap, hot meals, and we are at least well fed. We are well housed, too. Our living quarters are comfortable. And anyone who will make a couple of trips a day through the corridor, from the tip of the nose back and down to the depths of the lower fin, need not complain of lack of exercise."

Adverse Winds Spring Up.

"The night of the 13th was marked by adverse winds of considerable strength. As soon as the weather reports came in, next morning, it was decided to head up to the northwest. In the meanwhile, a steamer seen on the horizon was asked for her position, and the ZR-3 found herself, according to the steamer, about 120 miles to the northward of her assumed position. Communication was also established with the cruiser Detroit, and with all the available data as a guide, the course was laid north-west."

"Atrip above the clouds gave temporary relief from the summer temperature we have had. It was 72 degrees in the cabin last night, and continued warm today. Early in the afternoon, fog was encountered and for several hours the ship was close to the surface of the sea, the better to judge the direction and force on the wind by observing the waves. Then she climbed above the fog, which was only 500 or 600 feet high, and ran thus into darkness obscured the surroundings. We felt a sympathy for the vessels in that fog. We have been there in surface ships, ourselves, and this fog extended over 400 miles."

"When I came on watch, at midnight, the ZR-3 was skirting the southern coast of Nova Scotia. It was a cold, bright night, a decided change from the night before. At 10 minutes past 1, Seal Island was passed and the ship headed across the Gulf of Maine towards Boston. The position was occasionally checked by bearings from radio compass stations along the shore."

will be closely followed by the public. But, in the course of its probe of this charge, the committee will investigate and make public the amount and sources of campaign funds of all three political movements, which will be the first true anything of that kind has been done.

It is entirely likely that the committee, upon completion of its work, will recommend legislation to congress to regulate campaign contributions. An effort toward that end was made in the last congress, but it failed. All the plans offered were aimed at limiting campaign contributions, and the outgrowth of such a step would be the necessity of securing numbers of small contributions from the rank and file of the voters, a plan urged by many.

One Bill Vetted.

The corrupt practices act has not been revised in several years. Several senators last year, in the course of the debate, urged the necessity of complete revision, stating that the act was not accomplishing its purpose. To this end two measures were presented, one in the house by Representative Cable, of Ohio, the other in the senate by Senator Borah. Both provided for drastic limitation of campaign funds and other regulations. The Cable bill, passed by the house, was accepted finally by the senate in place of the Borah measure and was tacked onto the postal salary increase bill as a rider. This bill was vetoed by Coolidge. It is expected that the next congress will pass one of the other of these measures.

COMMITTEE FAILS TO PROBE CONTEST

When the contest committee, appointed at the democratic state convention in Macon last Monday to consider primary contests it did not take up that filed by Dr. Craig R. Arnold, of Dahlonega, unsuccessful candidate for the state senate from the thirty-second district. This contest was not considered as it was not among those listed in the resolution creating the committee, it was said.

Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the state executive committee, said Wednesday that Arnold's contest was not filed until after the Macon convention was in session. The election was contested on the grounds that Dr. Arnold's opponent, J. T. Pruett, had not filed a statement of his expenses, as provided by law, and it was alleged that liquor had been used by supporters of Mr. Pruett in efforts to influence voters.

Georgian, Who Headed Griffin Sunday School For 33 Years, Retires

Griffin, Ga., October 15.—(Special). J. P. Nichols, superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday school for the past 33 years, has retired from active service on account of the pressure of other church duties, the moderatorship of the Flint River association and the large amount of state work on his hands.

Dean C. H. Westbrook, on behalf of the board of deacons, recently offered a resolution commending his loyal work during this long service. The board also recommended to the church that the following be elected as the general officers of the Sunday school for the ensuing year: John H. Cheatham, superintendent; W. L. Joiner, Jr., associate superintendent; G. T. Cooper, secretary; J. P. Nichols, treasurer.

HYSTERICAL GIRL CARRIED TO GRADY FOR OBSERVATION

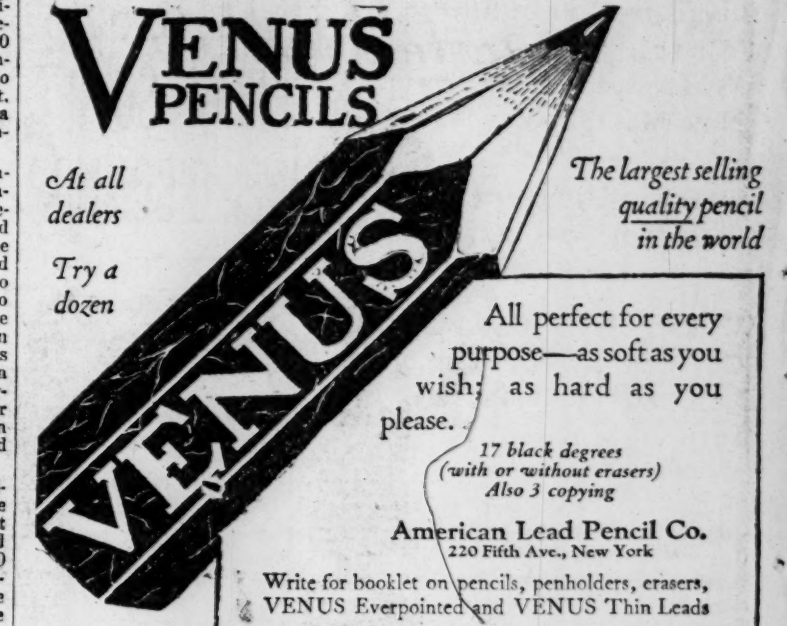

Answering a call of a reported suicidal attempt early Wednesday night, Frank Trammell, Grady hospital ambulance driver, found Miss Myrtle Holbrook, 24, in a hysterical condition at her home, 136 West Peachtree street, according to his report at Grady hospital.

Physicians say, however, that they were unable to find any traces of poison. She is being held at the hospital for further examination.

Be hard to please when you buy bonds

The most successful investors ask impudent questions. They insist on knowing precisely how much safety they are getting, why the bond pays a certain rate of interest, how good the record of the issuing banking house is. Nothing is taken for granted, and there is no polite fear of hurting anybody's feelings.

If you are seeking a safe investment paying up to 7% interest, we would be pleased to have you ask all the questions about Miller First Mortgage Bonds you can think of. Our files contain hundreds of letters asking shrewd, searching questions. Many of the writers of those letters are now satisfied owners of Miller Bonds. Perhaps you are overlooking an investment opportunity in not becoming acquainted with these bonds. Begin your investigations by writing today for our booklet "Creating Good Investments."

Widow Denies She Told Shadel To Slay Willow

Middleburg, Pa., October 15.—Mrs. Annie Willow, widow of Harvey C. Willow, farmer, today took the witness stand in her own behalf in the Snyder county court where she is on trial charged with complicity in the murder of her husband. She sobbed as she told the story of her life with Willow, of alleged cruel treatment, of how she pleaded with Ralph Shadel, 18-year-old farm hand, not to kill her husband. Shadel, who was convicted of second-degree murder last week for killing Willow and sentenced to 10 to 20 years, was on the stand today as the prosecution's last witness. There was a long argument before he was admitted to testify. He simply told of shooting Willow and was not cross-examined by the defense. Emanuel E. Pawling, counsel for the defense, in his opening address, declared that Mrs. Willow pleaded with Shadel "not to shoot Harvey." Mrs. Willow, he said, feared Shadel, and did not reveal the crime when she learned that he had killed her husband. "I'll kill you and hang myself," Shadel is alleged to have declared to Mrs. Willow, her counsel said.

Mrs. Willow, on the stand, testified that she had never been treated well by her husband since the first year of their marriage 16 years ago. She recounted how her husband had compelled her and their two small children to sleep in a cold hall in the farmhouse and told of having left him when his treatment became unbearable. "Harvey and I signed letters of separation and he paid me a couple hundred dollars," said Mrs. Willow. "But he came to me again and pleaded we should try it over again just for the sake of the children. So I went back. He took back the separation money and gave me a note for it. "The night before he died he came to my bedroom. He carried a shotgun and said he would kill Ralph and me if we did not stop loving each other. He pointed the gun at my head. I pulled the bedclothes over my face and told him to fire, but he was too chickenhearted to do it. "I never told Shadel to shoot Harvey. Ralph wanted me to poison him to get him out of the way so he could take his place. I told Ralph that Harvey threatened to shoot him and me. Ralph jumped up and swore 'I am going to kill him.' They went hunting and you know Harvey never came back."

CHAMBER DIRECTORS PLAN NEW FEATURES

Election of 11 new members, appointment of an exposition committee, advertisement of a weekly paper to advertise Atlanta and a discussion of a trip to Cuba by a group of Atlanta business men were principal features of a meeting Wednesday of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce.

At the suggestion of directors Mrs. Samuel Inman opened the meeting with prayer, following which the American creed was read.

The principal address was made by A. R. Rogers, assistant general manager, of Grand Central Palace, of New York, who spoke on the southern exposition which is to be held in the palace on January 31, 1925. He urged that Georgia and Atlanta do everything in their power to make the southern exhibit a true representation of the south.

Mr. Rogers will be in Atlanta for three days and will explain methods for the preparation of the Georgia exhibit and plans for the exposition.

At the conclusion of Mr. Rogers' address the board of directors unanimously voted to appoint a special committee to represent the Atlanta chamber at the exposition, as follows: William Candler, George Hone, John Boehm, Alfred H. Newell, and Mrs. Samuel H. Inman.

Thirteen applications were voted on at this meeting and the following elected to membership: William K. Wyant, of the Chatfield Woods company; Harry Steele, Equitable Life Assurance society; C. W. Denning, Columbian National Life Insurance company; L. W. Conner, Conger Printing company; S. Russell Bridges, H. T. Adams, Equitable Life Assurance society; H. E. Bray, Equitable Life Assurance society; Thomas E. Adams, John P. Carroll, Carroll Roofing company; D. W. Prather, William F. Milburn, Addressograph company; W. R. Deal, representative Georgia Association of Registered Druggists, and J. D. Collins.

The chamber donated $100 to the Atlanta Traffic club to assist in the entertainment of the National Associated Traffic Clubs of America in annual convention here.

Unanimous indorsement of a weekly newspaper to be published in the city, to be known as "This Week in Atlanta," which will have a circulation of 4,000 copies distributed free on the streets of the city and to be sent throughout the state was voted.

Alfred C. Newell was authorized to attend the meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, eastern division, to be held October 23-24, Washington, D. C.

A booster movement is being fostered by the chamber for a trip to Cuba of 100 Atlantans for the purpose of advertising Atlanta, the trip to begin January 5, 1925. The delegation will be 10 days with stopovers in Key West, St. Augustine, Fla., and at Havana, Cuba.

KLAN ORGAN PRINTS GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS

better highways, better roads in America.

"The next chasm to be bridged is the chasm of diseases. Do you know my brethren, one-third of the citizens of America suffer with one form or another of disease? Two-thirds of that one-third is preventable, and a man cannot make proper contribution to his own happiness or the happiness of his family and certainly not to the development and progress of his state that is bound and shackled by the bonds of physical weakness and suffering.

"I do not know, my brethren, but that we could render a greater service to our nation, if we could take the lead and demand it, that two-thirds of the sickness and suffering of America be obliterated by the establishment and proper maintenance

$1,000,000 OFFICE BUILDING PROPOSED

Plans for the erection of a large office building at the northeast corner of Forsyth and Poplar streets, to be 12 or 15 stories in height, and to cost $1,000,000, were made public Wednesday with announcement of Ben J. Russell, of Russell Realty company, and William Candler, of Callan Court company, of a deal now under way by which the Massell company will acquire the property of the proposed site.

The deal is practically completed, according to the principals, and only the signing of the title and the conveyance remains before the deal is consummated. The price is said to be in the neighborhood of $300,000, part of which consists of an exchange of West Peachtree property.

The lot now is occupied by a two-story building erected about two years ago and leased by owner to the Benjamin D. Watkins agency. It is stated that the proposed building, according to Mr. Russell, will be used as the home of Massell interests, which now control large properties and several industries in this city. Open space in the building will be rented as office space, it was stated.

of modern health departments in the different states of this nation.

"You give us better schools, better colleges, better highways, and better health, and then better homes and better churches will follow, and we will have the reign of peace and happiness in America."

"There is one other and final bridge that must be built. It is the bridge that will protect us in our national life. What good will it do to train and develop the minds and hearts and bodies of our boys and our girls, what good will it do if we build a bridge across their chasm and at the end of the highway of life, at the maturity of the boy and the girl, there is a darkened and a poisoned and a dying and decadent nation for them to live in?"

"So I suggest that we look to that stream of poison that is being injected into our national life through the admission of that lower type of foreigners that have been admitted into our land in the years that have gone by."

"This is no narrow or restricted suggestion that I am making to you. In the first place, I want to say that this does not mean, as our enemies would have it that we are making a fight upon the Catholic church, or the Catholic creed or the Catholic religion. As a good Baptist, and as I trust, a good American, I have shed every drop of blood in my body in fighting any man who would place a feather's weight in the way of a Catholic boy or girl who on the Sabbath morning walked out of a Catholic home to go to a Catholic church to worship in the Catholic Sunday school, following the Catholic creed which our mothers and fathers and Catholic mothers. (Applause.)"

Attacks Wilson.

"But it is a different thing, an infinitely different thing, when a Catholic secretary of a sympathetic president so manipulates the machinery of politics, that he will place in the center of every national war camp a Catholic church, and drive outside of the border of that camp, the back streets, in the back yard, on the alley ways, every Presbyterian, every Methodist, and every Baptist, and every other Protestant church. (Applause.)"

"It is a far different thing when a gang of Catholic priests take charge of the national convention of a great political party, some of us believing the hope of the future America and all of us believing one of the two parties to be the hope of America in the future who, through them, give orders to that party and to that nation that it must nominate a Catholic president, that you shall not nominate a Protestant for the president of the United States. (Applause.)"

"It is a far different thing, fellow klansmen, for the Catholic church, organized within its own limits, its own borders, a society-bound, a society-bound, votes like one man at the behest of a foreign leader, and then say that they will drive out of America any number of Protestants, and then say that they will establish for themselves a secret and oath-bound organization that may if they will vote alike. (Violent applause.)"

Immigration Views.

"These are different things. We have no fight to make upon the Catholic church, no fight upon the Catholic religion. We are here to protect the fundamental of our American government, and the basis of our American constitution, the right of religious freedom. (Applause.)"

"Let me say with equal frankness and earnestness this organization, as I understand it, has no fight to make upon the foreigner as a foreigner. It has no objection to a reasonable number of Belgians, or Swedes, or Norwegians, and other type of those northern and western states of Europe coming into this country. If in coming here they intend to make 100 per cent Americans. (Applause.)"

"I would build a steel wall against the admission of a single one of these southern Europeans, who never thought or spoke a language of democracy in their own lives. (Applause.)"

"I would go farther. I would place not only all every one of them who come here in the future, but every one of these recent years about whom there is any doubt as to their loyalty. I would place them on probation. I would let them for a term of one or three years, or five years, go to school in the school of democracy, and in the meantime I would let them report monthly or quarterly to some postmaster or some other federal official of this land, and have placed upon them the yardstick of 100 per cent Americanism, and if at the end of that reasonable time they did not speak our language, and did not qualify as a 100 per cent American then I would, if necessary, send them back across the ocean."

Melbourne, Australia, is to have two new hotels, each 12 stories high, the limit in height according to city building regulations.

FALLS INTO PIT

Man Hurt When He Drops Into 10-Foot Hole.

G. C. Tankersley, 30, of 34 West Peachtree street, was seriously injured early Wednesday night when he fell into a 10 foot pit in the alley near his residence, according to physicians at Grady hospital where he was treated for severe cuts and bruises.

According to Mr. Tankersley, he walked into the alley way shortly after supper Wednesday night and in the darkness walked into the pit.

CHURCH, NOT LAW, BRINGS REFORMS

added, "when we are seeking for social reforms. Of course we can help to restrain the vicious and furnish a degree of security and protection by legislation and police control, but the real reforms which society in these days is seeking will come as a result of our religious convictions, or they will not come at all."

"We cannot escape a personal responsibility for our own conduct. We cannot regard those as wise or safe counselors in public affairs who deny these principles and seek to support the theory that society can succeed when the individual fails."

Law and Virtue.

"There is no way by which we can substitute the authority of law for the virtue of man. Peace, justice, humanity, charity—these cannot be legislated into being. They are the result of a Divine grace."

From the life of Bishop Asbury, who came to this country as a preacher in the Revolutionary war, the president drew a lesson of sacrifice and devotion which, he said, "has gone into the making of our country." He said that the pioneer bishop traveled about 6,000 miles a year, preaching about 16,500 sermons and receiving as his highest salary $85 a year.

"He had no idea," Mr. Coolidge said, "that he was preparing men better to take part in a great liberal movement, the better to take advantage of the institutions and the better to perform the functions of self government. He did not come for political motives. He came to bring the gospel to the people."

Story Renews Faith.

"I do not see how any one could recount the story of this early bishop without feeling a renewed faith in our country. He met a multitude of trials. But he never wavered. He saw wars and heard rumors of war, but whatever may have been the surface appearance, underneath it all our countryman stood firm and continued to manifest a high courage, a remarkable strength of spirit and a unusual ability, in a crisis, to choose the right course. Something has continued to guide the people and No tumult has been loud enough to prevent their hearing the still small voice."

No storm has been violent enough to divert inspired men from constantly carrying the Word of Truth. The contests of the day have been but preparations for victories on the morrow. The path is all our country has acquired an underlying power of judgment and stability of action which has never failed it. It furnishes its own answer to those who would defame it. It can afford to be oblivious to those who would detract from it. America continues its own unchallenged and unafraid. Above all attacks and all vicissitudes it has arisen calm and triumphant; not perfect, but marching on guided in its great decisions by the same spirit which guided Francis Asbury.

Religion as Base.

"Our government rests upon religion. It is from that source that we derive our reverence for truth and justice, for equality and liberty, and for the right of mankind."

The people believe in these principles, they cannot believe in our government. There are only two main theories of government, the one is represented by a despotism. The history of government on this earth has been almost entirely a history of the rule of force held in the hands of a few. Under our constitution America committed itself to the practical application of the rule of reason, with the power held in the hands of the people."

"This result was by no means accomplished at once. It came about only by reason of long and difficult preparation, oftentimes accompanied with discouraging failure. The ability for self-government is arrived at only through an extensive training and education. In our own case it required many generations and was not yet arrived at when the revolution came."

Inspired By Revival.

"It is of a great deal of significance that the generation which fought the American revolution had seen a very extensive religious revival. They had heard the preaching of Jonathan Edwards. They had seen the great revivals of the 18th century. They were inspired by the preaching of Whitefield. The religious experiences of those days made a profound impression upon the great body of the people. They made new thoughts and created new interests. They freed the public mind, through a deeper knowledge and more serious contemplation of the truth. By calling the people to righteousness they were a direct preparation for self-government. It was for a continuation of this work that Francis Asbury was raised up."

The religious movement which he represented was distinctly a movement to reach the great body of the people. Just as our Declaration of Independence asserts that all men are created free, so it seems to me the founders of this movement were inspired by the thought that all men were worthy to hear the Word, worthy to be sought out and brought to salvation. It was this motive that took their preachers among the poor and neglected, even to the criminals in the jails. As our ideal has been to bring all men to freedom, so their ideal was to bring all men to salvation. It was preeminently a movement in behalf of all the people. It was not a new theory. The American constitution was not a new theory. But like it, it was the practical application of an old theory, which was very new."

Bishops Add to Praise.

Bishop Hamilton, referring to the works of the clergy in the early days of the country, described Asbury as the "chief of these pioneers and their supreme ruler."

"Francis Asbury must be called great," he said, "because he laid the foundation of the great Christian empire, of the increase of whose ministry and peace there shall be no end. His great common sense and his holy endowment made of him, measured by the untimely result, a wise and true prophet of his ministry, the greatest preacher that has invaded the country."

The work of the pioneer bishop also was emphasized by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Dr. H. K. Carroll, one of the founders of the Francis Asbury Memorial association.

Bishop Asbury Often Preached In Wilkes County

Bishop Francis Asbury, in whose honor an equestrian statue was unveiled in Washington Wednesday, visited Georgia during the closing years of the 18th century, when he often preached at "Grant's preaching house," in Wilkes county, about six miles from what is now Washington, Georgia.

This was before the founding of Atlanta—in the days when the Indians were in possession of this territory, according to Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, educational secretary of the North Georgia Methodist conference.

Bishop Asbury maintained a home in South Carolina during those days, Dr. Dempsey said. He also lived for some time at the "Rembert home" in South Carolina.

The spot on which "Grant's preaching house" stood is marked today by a marble monument, erected largely through the efforts of Senator Boyce Ficklen, prominent citizen of Washington. The monument was erected in 1916, the centenary of Bishop Asbury's death.

Some years ago, according to Dr. Dempsey, there existed in the Georgia Methodist conference an "Asbury re-memorating broodhood." The purpose of this organization was to furnish the circuit riders with horses. With the advent of the automobile and rapid growth of the country the broodhood died out, and today does not exist.

Bishop Warren Candler was active in the campaign to raise funds for the erection of the Asbury monument in Washington, Dr. Dempsey said, and a sizable share of the monument fund was raised in Georgia.

Dr. Dempsey said that Bishop Asbury was known as the "Prophet of the Long Road." In his journals, Bishop Asbury often speaks of his adventures in reaching from Maine to Georgia. These journals, published in three volumes, are circulated by all Methodist publishing houses. Dr. Dempsey said, and are read extensively.

GEORGIA ASSOCIATION PROTESTS RATE HIKE

Representatives of the Georgia association, appearing before the state public service commission on Wednesday morning, vigorously protested proposed increases in rates on milk and other dairy products.

The association pointed out that it has been putting forth much effort for the development of the dairy industry in the state, which is just beginning to grow, and any increases in freight rates on dairy products at this time would prove disastrous to the infant industry.

Members of the public service commission gave evidence of their deep interest in the arguments presented on both sides by the close attention they paid to the speakers for a period of nearly three hours. They allowed the petitioner 15 days in which to file a brief, allowing to those speaking for the farmers a similar privilege.

In addition to Vice President P. R. Bomelster, of the Georgia association, and P. T. Anderson, of the Kiwanis club, the following speakers were heard in protest: E. E. Persons, of Eastman, director of the Georgia association for Dodge county, and a leading spirit in the organization of the Dodge county creamery and the adoption in that county of the cow-hog program; C. L. Williamson, secretary of the Atlanta association of Credit Men; J. E. Gierum, of Columbus, manager of the Columbus creamery; Dr. M. P. Jarvis, and small husbandman of the State College of Agriculture, and J. B. McWhorter, speaking for the milk and cream producers of Greensboro.

Youth Who Slashed
Boy's Face Is Held
On Serious Charge

Jack Cannon, 24, of 215 Ivy street, was arrested late Wednesday night by Detectives J. H. Davis and J. C. Davis and held at police station under $1,000 bond on charges of disorderly conduct and assault with intent to murder as result of a fight and altercation last Sunday between Cannon and Harry Bosworth, 16, of Hapeville.

Cannon, according to detectives, is said to have slashed Bosworth's face with a pocket knife, inflicting a deep gash across Bosworth's right cheek. The altercation is said to have taken place on Luckie street, near Forsyth, following an argument.

NEGRO OFFICIAL DEFENDED BY U.S.

New Orleans, October 15.—United States Attorney Louis H. Burns, at the direction of Attorney General Stone, today filed the defendant's answer and a motion to dismiss the suit brought by H. Edwin Bolte, who says he is an attorney of Washington, D. C., to oust Walter L. Cohen, negro comptroller of customs for the port of New Orleans, from office on the ground that the 14th amendment to the federal constitution under which Cohen claims citizenship, is unconstitutional.

The motion was based upon a number of exceptions, none of which had to do with the allegations in the original bill of complaint attacking the validity of the amendment which gives citizenship to "persons of African blood and descent."

Among them were that the plaintiff affirmatively declares himself a resident of the District of Columbia and therefore not a citizen of a state and is incapable of invoking federal jurisdiction on the grounds of diversity of citizenship; that the matter of Cohen's occupancy of the office of comptroller of customs is purely political and that the court has no jurisdiction in equity, since it relates exclusively to and is wholly within the scope of the executive arm of the government.

It is probable that before the case is heard Federal Judge Foster will consider an injunction filed yesterday by Bolte seeking to restrain the federal attorney from acting as counsel to Cohen.

MARRIED TEACHERS' FATES WILL REST IN SUTTON'S HANDS

Action on requesting resignations of married probationary teachers in Atlanta schools rests entirely with Superintendent Willis A. Sutton, as an amendment asking resignations of all such married probationary teachers was withdrawn Tuesday at a meeting of the board of education.

No drastic steps will be taken, Mr. Sutton said Wednesday, and only a few teachers will be affected. Resignations already have been asked from three married teachers on the probationary rolls, he said, and in all probability, no others will be requested.

According to the present program, no wholesale action will be taken, and any married teachers, whose work is satisfactory, will be allowed to continue teaching, Mr. Sutton said. The point was raised to rid the school system of probationary teachers whose work was unsatisfactory because of the fact that they were married. Resignations of the three for the entire situation, it was said. No teachers now under civil service will be in any way affected.

Under the law which prevents railroad or executives of estates from dealing property without legal process, friendly legal steps will be taken to procure necessary property from the Southern railroad and the Tryonham estate, Mr. McCord said.

When the project is completed, Madison avenue will form a direct connecting link with the Spring street viaduct, and provide the south end of a boulevard extending three miles. The distance from the Peters street bridge to Whitehall streets is about five blocks.

Single Wedding Suddenly Turned To Double Affair

Romantic sighs of assembled guests at the Lockhart-Davis wedding Wednesday evening were suddenly turned into gasps of surprise and astonishment.

They had come to witness the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Lockhart and Victor Manget Davis. It was for that purpose, and that alone, that they had gathered in the beautifully decorated First Presbyterian church in Decatur.

The solemn tones of Rev. J. P. Wardlaw's final benediction upon the young couple echoed sweetly and seriously into the far reaches of the auditorium. The ceremony was over. It was time to arise and congratulate the happy young couple.

But not quite—

No sooner had the Lockhart-Davis ceremony been consummated than the bride's maid of honor, Miss Helen Lockhart, walked to the spot where her sister had stood a moment before. By her side stood Thomas Harlan Watkins. The guests gazed at the Rev. Wardlaw began again the reading of the ceremony, which ended in pronouncing Miss Helen Lockhart and Thomas Harlan Watkins man and wife.

Everybody agreed that it was, indeed, a wonderful wedding—or better, "wonderful weddings."

FINISH NEGOTIATIONS TO WIDEN MADISON AVE.

All negotiations for property necessary to widen and extend Madison avenue from the Peters street bridge to Whitehall street have been completed, Mayor Walter A. Sims was notified Wednesday by J. L. McCord, who was specially designated by city council to acquire the land.

Consent of the Massell Realty company has been obtained to deed to the city a strip of land fronting 50 feet on Whitehall street and extending back 15 feet to the building on that lot, on condition that the owners be relieved of the amount assessed on the property. Other property acquired included lots at the corner of Forsyth and Fair streets, lots at 255-256 Whitehall street, and a lot at the intersection of Garnett and Madison street.

Under the law which prevents railroad or executives of estates from dealing property without legal process, friendly legal steps will be taken to procure necessary property from the Southern railroad and the Tryonham estate, Mr. McCord said.

When the project is completed, Madison avenue will form a direct connecting link with the Spring street viaduct, and provide the south end of a boulevard extending three miles. The distance from the Peters street bridge to Whitehall streets is about five blocks.

Oglethorpe Head Receives Degree For Literary Work

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, received the degree of bachelor of literature Wednesday afternoon from Presbyterian college, of South Carolina, as a part of the exercises dedicating two new buildings on the campus of the South Carolina schools, it was announced Wednesday night.

Dr. Jacobs for two years edited the monthly magazine of the college and later was associated with his father in the publication of Our Monthly. At a later date the Oglethorpe president became associated with Senator Robert L. Taylor and John Trotter in the publication of the Trotter magazine.

Officials of the South Carolina institution announced that Dr. Jacobs was chosen for this honor by virtue of his contributions to southern letters.

Among Dr. Jacobs' literary products are "The Midnight Mummer," "Sisful Saddy," and "The Law of the White Circle."

VALDOSTA OWNERS WIN HALF-VICTORY

An important decision, involving the right of a city to assess property owners for paving charges was handed down Wednesday by the Georgia supreme court in the case of H. E. Tillman and others versus the city of Valdosta.

The suit was brought by residents and property owners of Valdosta seeking a permanent injunction and restraining order to prevent city authorities from selling $41,250 in bonds, issued under authority of the act of the Georgia legislature of 1921. The proceeds were to pay for new paving on certain streets in Valdosta. Most of the plaintiffs were owners of vacant property which it was claimed would not be enhanced in value over 25 per cent of paving assessments levied against it.

It was also charged that the mayor and council of Valdosta had failed to find a purchaser for the street improvement bonds and were contemplating purchasing them on behalf of the city by using a sinking fund accumulated to discharge valid municipal bonds heretofore issued.

The lower court issued an order restraining the city authorities from using the sinking fund for the purchase of the new bonds, but refused to interfere in regard to the property

JERITZA ARRIVES FOR CONCERT HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

Madame Marie Jeritza, who will sing at the Auditorium on Saturday night in the first of civic concert series, arrived in Atlanta on Wednesday morning, accompanied by her husband, her manager, her maid, her accompanist and her violinist. Almost immediately she retired to the privacy of her room in the Biltmore. She declared she needed rest and refused to appear either before interviewers or members of the Music Study club before Thursday.

This is the first appearance of the noted soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company in Atlanta, though efforts have been made to bring her here for the annual grand opera season for the past two years.

It is anticipated that there will be a large audience at the Auditorium Saturday night, inasmuch as the singer's fame is hardly second to that of any other opera star before the public today.

Tickets for the concert will go on sale Thursday morning at the Cable Piano company at 9 o'clock. It was announced Wednesday by officials of the Atlanta Music club.

Assessments for paving or in the sale of the new bonds in the regular market on the open market. The supreme court in its decision, of Wednesday affirmed the action of the lower court on each point.

DAVIS-BRYAN CLUBS IN BIG RALLY TONIGHT

Democrats of Atlanta, Fulton county and the surrounding sections of the state Thursday will gather to give impetus to the Davis-Bryan presidential campaign in Georgia and to perfect plans for an intensive canvass for new members for Davis-Bryan clubs. The meeting will be held at the Kimball house.

B. P. Gambrell, chairman of the Fulton County Davis-Bryan club and president of the Young Men's league, of Fulton county, will preside. Many prominent speakers will address the gathering at the conclusion of a dinner which will be served, and the issues of the national campaign will be clearly outlined.

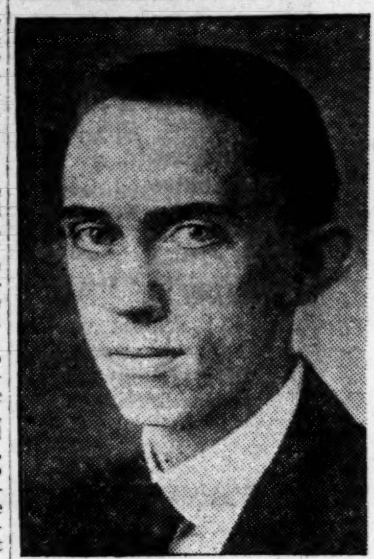

Georgia democrats will be urged to carry their full share of the responsibility of electing the democratic candidates in the November election, not only by going to the polls and casting their ballots for democracy, but by contributing financial aid to the campaign, so that democratic dollars from Georgia may be used in the other states where the race for a democratic majority is far closer than it is here.

Funds Are Needed.

Membership in the Davis-Bryan club costs only $1. and every cent of that fee is sent to the national campaign headquarters, where the money is used to defray necessary expenses. Large sums of money already have been forwarded to the national headquarters in the Davis-Bryan clubs in nearly all counties of the state is growing rapidly.

With the election less than three weeks off, it is extremely important that Georgians contribute as large numbers and as liberally as possible for these concluding and crucial weeks of the campaign, says Victor Allen, financial chairman for Georgia.

Among prominent speakers on the program for the Thursday night rally are Governor Clifford Walker, former Congressman William Schley Howard, John S. Cohen, Georgia national committee chairman, Mrs. Edgar Alexander, Georgia national committeewoman; Victor Allen, Walter McElreath, chairman of the Georgia campaign organization, and others.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate for the vice presidency in 1920, who had been invited to address the meeting, will not be able to be present, he states in a letter to Mr. Gambrell, received Wednesday. Mr. Roosevelt is at Warm Springs, Ga., recuperating from a serious illness and is forbidden to leave the health resort by physicians.

Roosevelt's Letter.

In the letter to Mr. Gambrell, expressing his regret at his unavoidable absence, Mr. Roosevelt says:

My Dear Mr. Gambrell:

I very much wish that I could accept your delightful invitation to come to the democratic rally on Thursday. I fear that it is impossible as I am still on crutches and I promised not to interrupt at this time the "cure" I am taking in this wonderful Warm Springs swimming pool.

All the information which I am receiving daily from the north and west leads me to believe that the Davis strength is constantly growing and that things look much brighter for the success of the democratic ticket than they did even a few weeks ago. There is no doubt that John W. Davis is gaining friends and votes wherever he goes and the election is going to furnish many disagreeable surprises to our over-confident and complacent republican opponents. It is fine to know that Georgia is joining wholeheartedly in our democratic enthusiasm.

I would like very much to be able to be with you all on Thursday, and I hope that you will extend my greetings to my many friends in this state who will be there.

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

City Club Members Hear Republican Views at Meeting

The issues in the presidential campaign from a republican point of view will be discussed by United States District Attorney Clint W. Hager at a luncheon Friday of the City Club of Atlanta, to be held at 12:30 o'clock at the Piedmont hotel, it was announced Wednesday.

This is the second of a series of discussions on the presidential campaign, the first having been made last week by James A. Hollomon. The issues in the campaign were presented from a democratic point of view in Mr. Hollomon's address.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS HEAD PRAISES CHEST

As head of one of the most important service agencies in the Atlanta Community Chest, Kendall Weisiger, president of the Anti-Tuberculosis association, has addressed a letter to Roy P. Gates, director of the chest, heartily endorsing the operation of the chest during its first year.

While the 1924 budget of the association had to be reduced in the chest, Mr. Weisiger feels that his organization received a satisfactory allotment of the chest funds.

The chest campaign this year begins on November 5 and continues for one week.

SUAVE YOUNG MEN ROB FILLING STATION

Sneak thieves rifled the cash drawer of a Pan-American gas filling station located at Fourteenth and Spring streets late Wednesday afternoon of $13 in change and escaped while the manager, W. L. Leverett, and an attendant were busy putting a tire on a automobile in front of the station.

According to stories told police investigators, two young men asked permission to wash their hands in a lavatory in the rear of the office and immediately after their disappearance the loss was discovered.

Small Fire Damage.

Fire believed to have originated from defective wiring in the cellar early Wednesday night caused damage estimated at $1,000 to the delicatessen establishment of J. H. York, located at 2 Edgewood avenue.

Airplane flying between London and Cologne carry 300 passengers each way a month.

Purchase of Site For Landing Field Halted by Price

Councilman objections to the price may prevent purchase of the Nichols property on Brown's Mill road for use as a municipal airplane landing field, it was indicated Wednesday.

Although no price has been officially reported, it is generally understood that $65,000 will be asked for the 208-acre tract.

Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the board of Fulton county commissioners, and Dr. C. C. Aven, chairman of the special committee of city council, plan to confer this week with trustees of the Nichols farm and also with real estate dealers handling the property, in order to obtain the lowest possible price for the land.

They also will investigate the cost of grading a site near the county almshouse on Power's Ferry road, and will make a full report to general council on Monday.

It is understood that members of the county board will not favor selection of the city dairy farm as a site because it is located in DeKalb county.

Fulton Site Available.

"There is no reason why Fulton county should spend money to grade a site in some other county," one of the commissioners stated Wednesday. "Especially when there are at least two sites within Fulton county which have been approved by government representatives."

Mayor Walter A. Sims also will oppose expenditure of a large amount of money for the project, he said Wednesday. "The air mail route proposed by the government would be a fine thing for Atlanta," he said, "but such a project still is in its experimental stage, and I will oppose expenditure of a large sum at this time. I favor a landing field, but it seems that the price asked for the Brown's Mill road is far higher than should be paid for such a field."

The mayor, with representatives of city council and the county commission, will make detailed inspections of all three proposed sites before the matter is brought up in council next week.

Nichols Site Favored.

Members of the councilmanic committee have expressed themselves as unanimously favoring the Nichols site, and that property also has been approved by Colonel Charles H. Danforth, head of the air forces of the fourth corps area. Colonel Danforth also has approved the Power's Ferry road field, but states that because of its railroad facilities, the Nichols property is the best.

It is thought that the cost of grading the site on Power's Ferry road, which is owned by the county, would be less than cost of purchasing and grading the Nichols property, with its principal drawback being lack of adequate railroad facilities. Exact figures on cost of both fields when completed will be investigated by Dr. Aven and Mr. Johnson, and will be included in the report to council.

HUNTERS TO TAKE TO FIELDS TODAY; DOVE SEASON OPENS

Georgia Nimrods take to the fields today.

October 16 is the beginning of the open season in this state on doves, and from this date until January 31 it is perfectly lawful for the intrepid hunter to shoot as many as 25 doves in any one day. That number, however, is the bag limit and any excess will lay the hunter liable to arrest and prosecution.

Commissioner of Game and Fish Peter S. Twitty stated Wednesday that he had notified all game wardens in the state to do their utmost to see that the law is observed.

One particular feature that Mr. Twitty stressed is the fact that the open season on quail does not begin until November 20. He warned hunters to be particularly careful not to become confused and kill quail instead of doves. He stated that every violator discovered would be prosecuted as vigorously as possible.

GOVERNOR NAMES TRUSTEES OF SCHOOL

Governor Clifford Walker Wednesday appointed two new members of the board of trustees of the Georgia Normal school at Statesboro, and reappointed three other members of the same board.

The old members reappointed were John G. Kennedy, of Savannah; J. E. McCroen, of Statesboro, and J. B. Clark, of Darien. New members are W. B. Kennedy, of Metter, and Dr. C. H. Kitchin, of Dublin.

Dr. Claude Roundtree, of Boston, Ga., Wednesday took the oath of office as a member of the state board of pharmaceutical examiners.

MARCH OF ALLEGIANCE MARKS W. C. T. U. MEET

Albany, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—The 41st annual convention of the Georgia Woman's Christian Temperance union, which is being held in the Golden Jubilee year of the national organization, is being attended by a representative delegation from all parts of Georgia. There have been busy sessions today with Mrs. Lella A. Dillard, of Atlanta, president, presiding.

The feature of today was the "march of allegiance" through some of the principal streets of Albany this afternoon, participated in by officers and delegates of the convention, local W. C. T. U. members, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, women's organizations and hundreds of school children. Headed by the Cairo band, the marchers passed through the business district. They carried banners and placards proclaiming anew their allegiance to the cause of temperance and their determination to fight without ceasing for law observance.

COURT AFFIRMS LIFE SENTENCES FOR 3 PERSONS

Three life sentences imposed by the lower courts on murder charges were affirmed Wednesday by the Georgia supreme court.

One case was that of Adam Lindsay, a Fulton county negro, who was convicted of killing H. H. Heard, county policeman, near Egan park on October 20, 1923.

The other cases were Katie Lou Greer, convicted of killing Sam Marshall in Muscogee county, and Dennis Seay, convicted of killing his wife, Savannah Seay, in Upson county.

SNIDER, HATTAWAY GIVEN LIFE TERMS

Warrenton, Ga., October 15.—After deliberating 16 hours, the jury in the case of Eugene Snider and Charlie Hattaway, charged with the murder of Hattie Wimberly, of Augusta, returned a verdict of guilty with recommendation to mercy at 11:10 o'clock this morning. The verdict automatically prescribes life imprisonment. The prisoners were sentenced immediately.

It is understood that the defense will appeal the case.

The jury asked to be recharged after being deadlocked all night and Judge E. T. Shurley complied with the request.

Both defendants claimed the killing of Hattie Wimberly was an accident.

Snider admitting the actual homicide he said that his revolver was discharged accidentally, and that he, with the assistance of Hattaway, carried the body in a car to point about 20 miles from the scene of the killing, and threw it into the Ogeechee river.

Hattaway claimed that the killing took place while his back was turned, but that he heard Snider say immediately after the shot that it was an accident.

The state contended that the motive for the killing was to remove a damaging witness in event the defendants were ever prosecuted for alleged illicit traffic in liquor.

BROTHER NOMINATED AS MUDD'S SUCCESSOR

Baltimore, Md., October 15.—Thomas B. R. Mudd was selected by the republican state central committee today as republican nominee for congress from the fifth Maryland district in place of his brother, Representative Sydney E. Mudd, who died suddenly Saturday night.

Wahabi Tribesmen Enter Holy City Of Islamic World

Cairo, Egypt, October 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Wahabi tribesmen, enemies of the Hashimite dynasty in the hedjaz, under pressure from whom King Hussein abdicated in favor of his son, Ali, have entered Mecca, the holy city of the Islam world. The situation is quiet and there have been no excesses on the part of the occupying forces.

The leaders of the Wahabis assured the consular corps at Jeddah that foreigners would be safe and that the invading forces would not attack Jeddah.

London, October 15.—The inhabitants of Mecca welcomed the invading Wahabi tribesmen when they entered the holy city, according to a dispatch from Cairo to the Evening News.

The residents of the city professed conversion to the Wahabi sect of the Mohammedan faith and accompanied the invaders to the king's palace, which was looted.

NAVY SEAPLANE MAKES WORLD RECORD FLIGHT

Washington, October 14.—An official world record for non-stop flight of a seaplane was made by a navy scouting plane at Anacostia today, the plane remaining in the air 20 hours, 10 minutes and 10 seconds, as against the old time of 14 hours, 53 minutes and 44 seconds.

Five days ago a composite type seaplane, single motored, stayed in the air 20 hours and 28 minutes, but the flight was not properly checked and was not recognized.

HIGH ARMY OFFICER TO RETIRE NOV. 15

Washington, October 15.—Major General Walter A. Bethel, judge advocate general of the army, will retire November 15 because of failing eyesight and will be succeeded by Colonel John A. Hull. M'GREGOR SERVICE TO BE HELD TODAY

Warrenton, Ga., October 15.—Funeral services for Major C. E. McGregor, 54, pension commissioner of Georgia, who died at his home here at 5:30 o'clock this morning, will be held here at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Interment will be at Center Hill cemetery.

Major McGregor was taken seriously ill several weeks ago, and due to his advanced age, little hope was held for his recovery. He was a Confederate veteran and well known throughout the state. He was recently defeated for reelection as pension commissioner by Colonel John W. Clark, of Augusta.

EX-GOVERNOR HARRIS MAY FILL VACANCY

While Governor Clifford Walker did not give any intimation on Wednesday as to who he will appoint to fill the unexpired term of the pension commissioner, made vacant by the death on Wednesday morning of Major C. E. McGregor, it is reliably reported that he will ask former Governor Nat E. Harris, of Macon, to take the post.

Governor Harris is one of the outstanding figures of the remaining Confederate veterans and it is believed that the governor will try, if possible, to continue the practice of filling this office with a Confederate veteran as long as any remain able to perform the duties.

Captain John W. Clark, of Augusta, who defeated Major McGregor in the recent September primaries, will not take office until next June, when the new state administration is installed, and it is necessary for the governor to make an appointment for the interim.

AUTO VALUES GROW DESPITE PRICE CUTS

Cleveland, Ohio, October 15.—Notwithstanding motor car price reductions, the aggregate dollar value of production is increasing because of the larger percentage of closed cars. Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, declared today before the convention of the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' association. The motor car is giving $1.11 value for every dollar invested, he said, as compared with pre-war prices.

Forced To Wed By Hooded Mob, Says G. F. Edge

Greenwood, S. C., October 15.—G. F. Edge, proprietor of an investment company here, today reported to a local newspaper that several nights ago he was held up at the point of drawn revolvers while walking on one of the main streets of the city, kidnaped by five men and carried to the country about fifteen miles, where the five men hooded themselves and were joined by 100 other hooded men and then he was carried to a country home where he was forced to marry a girl whom he was alleged to have wronged.

One of the hooded men removed his garb and performed the ceremony after Mr. Edge had been made to sign a paper, alleged to have been a marriage license, according to his report today. A hooded man lectured him and warned him that the marriage was performed by a klanman and "that we are as thick around here as dogwood blossoms in the springtime."

Mr. Edge denied the charge and does not intend to carry out the supposed vows he took, he said today. He has consulted an attorney, who advised him that the marriage was not legal or binding.

Mr. Edge said one of the cars accompanying him to the country bore a Georgia license.

EXTORTION CHARGED TO RACE HORSE OWNER

Washington, October 15.—Frederick A. Burton, wealthy president of the Burton Coal company, and owner of Wise Counsellor, the race horse which beat Epinard in the first international race, is charged in two damage suits on trial here with extorting $100,000, $100,000 from Mrs. Frank Crozier, wife of an attorney, and $300,000 from James H. McElvain, former president of a coal company. Mrs. Crozier charged Burton threatened he would have her husband disbarred because of malpractice. Although Burton's charge was denied, she said she turned over to him securities worth $100,000 of which she seeks recovery.

McElvain said the amount he seeks to recover was extorted from him by Burton as a party to the alleged action of Attorney Crozier.

MEXICO IN AGREEMENT WITH OIL COMPANIES

Mexico City, October 15.—(By The Associated Press.)—An agreement has been reached on the fundamental points in the long-standing controversy between the oil companies and the government, says a treasury department statement issued at the conclusion of the conference between government officials and a committee of the Association of Producers of Petroleum.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good; keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic cough, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

rum in Mexico, which has been here since September 17. The committee, consisting of Chester Swain, counsel for the Standard Oil company, of New Jersey; General Avery Andrews, American representative of the Royal Dutch-Shell, and Dean Emery, counsel for the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, left for New York last night without making public any announcement as to the outcome of their mission.

BOARD POSTPONES LINDSAY'S TRIAL

Because Councilman J. A. Beall was disqualified to sit as a member of the police commission of city council during the scheduled trial of Patrolman L. H. Lindsay Wednesday night, this losing a quorum of the committee, the trial was continued until the next meeting of the body, when, at Lindsay's request, he will be tried before the full committee.

Councilman H. H. Inman, chairman of the committee, ruled that Mr. Beall was disqualified after the latter asked that he be excused. Mr. Beall is the complaining witness on the charges of insubordination against the suspended officer, Alderman Claude E. Buchanan was the only other member of the committee present.

Dr. C. C. Aven, who has played the police committee for their shake-up of the police department two weeks ago and who has charged political favoritism in connection with the transfer of a number of members of the department and the suspension of Lindsay, was present at the hearing but had no statement to make.

"I previously had warned the public to keep their eyes on the committee during this trial," he said, "and their action in postponing it is only another of their tricks. They knew that with Councilman Beall disqualified, a quorum would not be present. I understand that Alderman Armstrong is attending a meeting of the Eastern Star and it is strange that he should be there when he knew that an important hearing was scheduled."

Patrolman Lindsay was suspended by the committee two weeks ago on charges of violating rule 84, of the police department, which forbids members of the department to participate in any political campaign.

Participants in any political campaign. Charges of insubordination, brought by Mr. Beall, were substantiated.

Charges of insubordination resulted from a campaign speech alleged to have been made by Lindsay at the Pryor Street school in which he is said to have first stated that he had been suspended by the committee behind closed doors, and later qualified his charges by saying that he had been demoted through activities of Mr. Beall, and that he did not care to tell of "the dirty methods" used in reducing him.

POLICE COMMITTEE REFUSES TO RECALL DETECTIVES' CASE

Ruling that, when the grand jury failed to return indictments against City Detectives L. D. Portwood and E. S. Acree, it was not up to them to take further action in the case, the police committee of city council Wednesday night refused to recall the case, but stated that it would suspend both officers if the next grand jury indicts them on charges growing out of the shooting of R. E. Farlow several weeks ago.

Attorney John S. McCalland, representing Farlow, told members of the committee that all witnesses did not testify before the last grand jury, with the result that the officers were not indicted, but that all would testify at the next grand jury, and that true bills probably will be returned. Both officers were suspended following the shooting, but were reinstated when the grand jury failed to indict them.

McCalland stated that Mr. and Mrs. Farlow were the only witnesses before the grand jury, and that jurors asked to hear from Sheriff James L. Lowry and Acting Chief of Police Jett, who testified. He claimed that the solicitor general's office did not present all witnesses, but L. P. Marguier, who is connected with the office, replied that all testimony which could be obtained was presented.

Wording of Law Condemns Many To Noose Death

Despite reports that no condemned criminals hereafter are to be executed in Georgia by the rope, now that the electric chair as provided in a bill passed at the recent legislature, there are many persons under sentence of death in the state who will be hanged, it developed Wednesday at the state capital.

The question arose over a discussion as to whether Geris Bloodworth and Willie Jones, Taylor county youths convicted of killing a traveling salesman, whose appeal for a new trial was refused by the supreme court Tuesday, will hang or be electrocuted in event the prison commission and the governor fail to inquire.

The boys will expiate their crime at the end of a noosed rope rather than in the death chair at Milledgeville, as will others now awaiting final action of the courts and the executive upon their appeals, it was pointed out.

The electrocution law does not apply to persons convicted before the law was enacted. Attorney General George M. Napier pointed out that the wording of the law specified "convicted" and not "sentenced," thus eliminating any question which might arise over resentencing by the court after appellate courts had finally passed on cases. Under this light there are a number of condemned who were convicted before the new law became effective, including at least one woman, Mrs. Hughes, now in Fulton county. Cotton Planters Losing Millions, Asserts Lowden

Chicago, October 15.—Cotton growers will lose millions of dollars for 1924, according to a statement made by former governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, in an address before the Inland Daily Press association. He said that figures of the department of agriculture showed that a 5 per cent increase in cotton production had caused a 20 per cent decrease in price.

Mr. Lowden cited these figures in arguing that the agricultural problem was not yet solved, and that cooperative marketing was needed. The members of the association were luncheon guests of the department of agriculture. Homer J. Buckley, president of the council, was in the chair.

BOSS SIDES FIRE SHOT IN GAS CASE

Attacking the report of Cam D. Dorsey, master of chancery in the Atlanta gas rate case, the Georgia Railway & Power company Wednesday filed a bill of exceptions in United States district court which alleges that the present gas rate is confiscatory, while an answer, also filed Wednesday by the Georgia public service commission attacks the Dorsey report from the opposite side.

The public service commission insists in its answer that the master in chancery has based his valuation of gas property upon prices as they existed December 30, 1921, instead of upon prices as they existed on January 1, 1924.

The power company's answer claims that Dorsey's valuation of its gas system is far below the actual value, that the present gas rate is confiscatory, that his report fails to allow a sufficient sum for depreciation.

The commission's answer alleges that Dorsey's report gives figures far in excess of the actual value of the property in question. Practically every major item in the master's report of values is challenged.

The actual value, it is alleged, falls short of Dorsey's estimate by almost $1,000,000.

These answers are the latest development in the gas rate fight which started in January, 1921, when the public service commission ordered that the gas company lower its rate 10 per cent. The Georgia Railway and Power company then obtained a temporary injunction from Judge Samuel H. Slay, which prevented the new rate becoming effective at once.

The case was heard before a three-judge tribunal and the rate ordered by the public service commission was upheld.

Low Rate Upheld.

The power company appealed this decision to the supreme court, posting bond of $100,000 to guarantee a refund to gas patrons should the supreme court uphold the lower rate. The lower rate was upheld and the refund was made during recent months.

A standing master in chancery was appointed after the power company continued to protest the new gas rate. The master in chancery was ordered to investigate the entire case and make a report. This report was filed recently. It held that the new rate is not confiscatory, but raised the valuation of the gas company's holdings to $8,015,000.

Physicians Fight Medical Board's Claim to Power

An appeal to the superior court will be entered at once by Norman I. Miller, attorney, representing Dr. T. W. Hughes and Dr. N. A. Hughes, two local physicians, whose licenses were revoked by a meeting of the state board of medical examiners Tuesday, it was announced Wednesday by Attorney Miller.

Both were revoked on two grounds, it was stated by officials of the board: Charges of advertising certain cures of social diseases and of having been convicted in Texas for violation of the federal law governing the use of the mails.

A statement made Wednesday night by Attorney Miller follows: "The charges against the two doctors on which were based the proceedings for revocation of their licenses are unjust. Dr. N. A. Hughes was pardoned by the late President Harding and Dr. T. W. Hughes was granted a pardon by the late President Wilson as to their connections with the alleged misuse of mails."

"Both were full of unconditional pardons. This, it is contended, removed all ground for predication any charges upon such conviction."

"As to the charge of publishing and circulating advertisements relative to social diseases, the law is that it is the constitutional right of a citizen to advertise his business or profession in his own way, provided he does not encroach upon the health, safety or morals of the public; the advertisement on which the charge was based was not of an offensive character nor was it claimed to be."

"The provision of the act on which said charge was based is discriminatory and class legislation in that it seeks to prohibit only physicians from advertising—leaving others, such as druggists, etc., free to indulge in such advertising."

"The provisions of the act creating the state board on which said charges are based are unconstitutional and void and the questions involved will be carried, if necessary, through the supreme court of the United States. The action of the board on Tuesday does not affect the licenses of the Doctors Hughes at this time, the appeals automatically suspending such action."

Davis Displays His Proofs That Wheeler Was Framed

Cites Sworn Testimony of William J. Burns To Support Charges Against Lockwood and Coan.

Quincy, Ill., October 15.—In an authorized statement issued here tonight, John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, explained the basis for charges made by him against George B. Lockwood, secretary of the republican national committee, and former Attorney General Daugherty and reiterated his declaration that they "collaborated in an effort to procure evidence that might embarrass Senator Wheeler."

Mr. Davis said he had received a telegram from Mr. Lockwood complaining of the charges which the democratic candidate made recently in a speech in Indiana. His statement tonight, the candidate said, was not an answer to Mr. Lockwood and, he intimated none would be made.

Tolley Breaks Druid Hills Par; Gets 340 Yds. on Drive

BY GEORGE CONGDON

Cyril Tolley, French open champion and former British amateur champion, is noted everywhere for his driving power. He showed several hundred Atlantas Tuesday at East Lake driving that compared favorably with any shooting they had ever seen from a tee but it remained for Cyril Tolley to show yesterday afternoon at Druid Hills just what a mighty swat properly applied to a golf ball will do to par.

Tolley shot the Druid Hills course in 71, two under par, playing with Perry Adair, former southern champion, in a foursome at Druid Hills against Bob Jones, national amateur titleholder, and Tess Bradshaw, who holds no titles but swings a mighty effective club. It was the first time Tolley had ever seen the course.

Incidentally, Bobby came in with a 72, one under par. The foursome ended with Tolley and Adair three up and two to play. It was a little affair that was viewed by comparatively few golfers, since it was planned in a moment and without notice just as one feature of Tolley's entertainment while the noted continental champion is in Atlanta.

Driving Margin of Win.

Had there been early notice given the match just about three times the number of Atlantas made up the gallery at East Lake Tuesday, would have trumped over the Druid Hills links yesterday in the tracks of Tolley, Jones, Adair and Bradshaw.

The difference between Tolley's driving at East Lake Tuesday and his shots from the tee at Druid Hills yesterday was the margin of his and Adair's three-up victory over the all-even match at East Lake the day before. Bobby was applying the hawk eye to his approaches and putts, but he was simply outdriven by the French open champion.

After the match Tolley said that he was driving much better than usual. Nobody could beat the golf he was shooting with his wood.

The longest drive Tolley made during yesterday afternoon was measured, so there's no disputing the length of it. With carry, it was 340 yards. Tolley covered this remarkable yardage on No. 11. Veteran Atlanta golf shooter declared all at one time that it was the longest drive he had ever seen. That brought out the tape measure.

Driving Unequaled Here.

Tolley's great driving on other holes, coupled with this 340-yard shot on No. 11, turned the afternoon into an orgy of long shooting that has no equal in Atlanta links history.

Tolley began his ball-smashing spree on the sixth hole when he carried the second ditch. He followed this on the seventh when the ball stopped two feet over the green. On No. 12, just after shooting 340 yards on No. 11, Tolley got 306 yards on his drive and carry. Tolley made his fifth remarkable drive of the afternoon on No. 16, where he pounded the pellet to within five yards of the green on his tee shot.

Tolley during his visit to Atlanta, has more than lived up to his reputation as one of the greatest drivers in the world of golf. He has made golf history here.

TRACK DEAL IS CONTESTED

New Orleans, October 15.—That the reported purchase of controlling interest in the Jefferson race track by Robert S. Eddy, Jr., Robert Maestri and Charles Leigh, from James F. O'Hara, of Baltimore, and Gad Bryan, of Atlantic City, will be contested in the courts, was indicated today when word to that effect came from Chicago.

In a telegram to the Jefferson Park Fair association, operators of the Jefferson track, Attorney Sabath, representing a Chicago syndicate headed by Joseph A. Murphy, who announced last week that he and his assistants had purchased the O'Hara-Bryan stock, stated "our contracts have been legally closed and any other contracts are invalid. The telegram added that court action against the Jefferson association would be instituted to prevent the delivery of the controlling stock to the New Orleans syndicate.

SABATH TO FIGHT ALL TITLE CLAIMS.

Chicago, October 15.—Albert Sabath, attorney for the Chicago syndicate which recently purchased the Jefferson Park race track in New Orleans, left tonight for the Louisiana city to fight the claims of any other persons or syndicates to title in the property.

Under terms of the sale, the Chicago group, headed by Joseph A. Murphy, sent $3,000 to a Baltimore bank as the first payment. Charles Essig, acting for the Chicago group, said he had received notice from the bank that the money reached there last Friday, the day it was due.

Attorney Sabath applied for an injunction here today to prevent any of the stock to the track from being transferred to Robert Eddy and Placide Figueroa, of New Orleans.

Forbes, Mapp Fill Shoes Of Injured Georgia Stars

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

Athens, Ga., October 15.—(Special.) Wednesday afternoon the Georgia Bulldogs were carried through a stiff scrimmage, and the same program will likely be in vogue again today, as Coach Woodruff prepares the Red and Black for their game with Furman in Augusta Saturday.

The Georgia squad will leave Athens Friday morning and will have a short workout that afternoon in the county of Richmond. The number making the trip is not known, at present.

"Boose" Day, an exceptionally strong center in southern football this year, will be out of the Georgia lineup, and his injury is likely to keep him from the remaining games of the season. Ike Joselove, who is nursing an injured arm, received in the Yale game, is expected back in harness next week. Ed Bass, who was also crippled in the game last Saturday was out Wednesday and scrimmaged. Winston Carroll is out with an injured foot.

Use Local Boys.

Walter Forbes and Armand Mapp will probably fill the vacancies of Joselove and Joselove. Both are local boys and have made a good showing in the Woodruff machine this year.

"Buster" Kilpatrick has been shifted from quarter to half and has performed well at practice in his new position. George Morton was used Wednesday at quarter, his usual place being at half.

The Bulldogs are taking the Furman game as no easy affair. Coach Billy Laval points to the Georgia game, and Saturday the "Purple Hurricane" will give them a royal battle. Furman has been conquered this year by Alabama and Mercer, but a close score with the Red and Black will supplant any loss. Augusta has planned a gala day for the battle and expects a large crowd of visitors. Many Athenians will accompany the team, and the Georgia band will also be there. Reduced rates predominate over the Georgia road, a special being run for Saturday.

LINER WAITS FOR TEAMS

Quebec, October 15.—The Giants defeated the White Sox, 6 to 2, in the last game of an exhibition series here today. Joined by John McGraw and Charles Comiskey, who reached here this afternoon, the teams sailed aboard the liner Mont Royal for an exhibition tour of Europe. The liner delayed her sailing for three hours to let the team finish the series here.

The score: R. H. E.
New York.....6 13 1
Chicago.....2 6 1
Batteries: Neph, Bentley and Line; Foreman, Lawrence and Pichnich, Ruel.

TONY CAPONI GETS REFEREE'S DECISION

Memphis, Tenn., October 15.—Tony Caponi, of New York, was awarded a referee's decision over Lou Dennison, of Denver, at the conclusion of their eight-round bout here tonight. The men are lightweights.

JUSTUS OUT OF PETREL LINEUP

BY BILL MORROW.

With their score card showing two losses and one win out of three starts, the Oglethorpe Petrels will attempt to even the count when they face the Wofford Terriers in Anderson Friday afternoon. The meeting was scheduled for Spartanburg, but, according to late announcement, the contest has been shifted to Anderson.

Due to the Petrels' victory by a three-point margin over Citadel last Saturday, the Oglethorpe clan rates the favorite position in the coming meeting, Wofford having dropped a meeting by three touchdowns margin to the Citadel several weeks ago.

Coach Harry Robertson is expected to leave early Friday morning with his squad for the Terriers' haunts and a large number of the Oglethorpe students and followers are expected to take the jaunt to the scene of this fray.

Cooper, Petrel tackle, will be out of the lineup Saturday nursing injuries received Tuesday night in an ankle accident. Justus will fill his shoes in the Wofford game.

The Petrels were put through only a slight workout yesterday afternoon, the majority of the time being devoted to watching the freshman eleven in a practice tilt with Pup Phillips' University for Boys' level.

Coach Not Satisfied.

Coach Robertson was not satisfied with the work of his charges in last Saturday's tilt with Citadel. During the present week he has been very busy working with the team, and except for yesterday's letup, the pace has been hard.

Although the Petrels were on the larger end of a 10 to 7 score, Coach Robertson stated that his charges should have accounted for additional scores. The Petrels' defense was the bright spot in this place, the lone Citadel score coming by the aerial route after the first line defense had thrown back the rival forwards.

Although the dope favors the Petrels in their coming tilt with the Wofford Terriers, there is no certainty that

20 Tech High Men in Squad Making Journey to Dayton For Game With Steele High

BY GORDON KEITH.

Twenty Tech High football players, Principal Cheney, Coaches Tolbert and Alexander, Trainer Bill Bailey and Studeff, Manager Russell Newman leave the Terminal station at 4:10 o'clock this afternoon for Dayton, Ohio, where the Smithies meet Steele High on the gridiron Saturday afternoon.

The Tech High team carries with it the hopes of all Atlanta and the south on this first eastern invasion, and from the showing made by the Purple and Gold warriors in their first two games the former national champions may encounter serious trouble.

The players making the trip are: Thomason, Randolph, Mayhew, Rosenblatt, Parcial, Clinksdale, Barker, Cassons in the backfield, and Captain Holland, Davis, Morris, Payne, Lautenheiser, McConnell, O'Beary, Goldsmith, Watson, Rusk, McClure and Wade in the line.

Bailey Working Palyers.

Bill Bailey, trainer for the Atlanta Crackers, is working on the team now and has Coach Tolbert's men in the best condition of the season. All the varsity men, with the exception of one or two minor injuries, are in the pink of condition and anxious for Steele blood.

Tech High finished last season in a tie with the University School Blue Birds for top place honors in the prep league, and in the two games played this year the Smithies appeared to be an even better team than that of last year. They opened the season by defeating the strong Darlington eleven, 19-0, and turned Powder Springs back with a 97-0 defeat last Saturday.

Steele High is probably the best the north, or the nation, has produced in prep football teams. Year before last the Columbus team was undisputed national champions, and last year the Steele eleven finished at the top. The team has won two games this year from strong eleven, and with a raft of varsity men returned looks better than the '23 machine.

Reaches Dayton Friday.

The Tech High party will reach Dayton at 11 o'clock Friday, and work out on the Steele High grid field Friday afternoon. The game will be played on the same grounds Saturday afternoon.

BORAH IS COMPELLED TO PICK HIS PARTY.

Boise, Idaho, October 15.—Senator W. E. Borah, republican, nominated by both the republican and progressive parties in Idaho, must declare his party affiliations, the supreme court ruled today in upholding the state law that the name of a candidate can appear on one ballot only.

The court held that if a candidate refused to state a party affiliation a county auditor may place the name on either of the tickets upon which the candidate is nominated. Or in the opinion of Justice Dunn, the auditor has the right to drop the name from both ballots if the candidate refuses to express a preference.

Chicago, October 15.—Senator Borah will seek reelection on the republican ticket in Idaho, he stated here tonight. The senator said he had left a statement of declaration of his intentions with his secretary in Boise and it already had been filed or would be in a day or two.

SHEFFIELD PRESENTS MEXICAN CREDENTIALS

Mexico City, October 15.—The new United States ambassador, James Rockwell Sheffield today presented his credentials to President Obregon at the national palace in the presence of various cabinet members. The customary ceremonies were observed and formal addresses made expressing mutual desires for the continuance of cordial relations between the two republics.

Republican "Angels" Shown To Enjoy Money's Worth

Washington, October 15.—Chairman Clem L. Shaver, of the democratic national committee, issued this statement tonight:

"The pious pronouncement of the republican national committee that a limit of $25,000 has been placed on amounts that may be contributed to the Coolidge-Dawes campaign fund recalls that four years ago Chairman Will Hays made a similar announcement, except that in that campaign he fixed the limit at $1,000. Mr. Hays' limitation came hard upon the heels of the sensational disclosure of huge sums expended in the pre-convention campaign of Gen. Leonard Wood.

Despite the $1,000 limitation, republican headquarters raised and expended more than $6,000,000 in the Harding-Coolidge campaign, and more than $2,000,000 additional through state committees.

Kept Off Official Report.

"One of the methods of getting around Mr. Hays' publicly proclaimed $1,000 limit was disclosed during the senate committee's investigation of the naval oil leases when Mr. Hays admitted that $75,000 of the debt piled up by Mr. Hays' committee in the 1920 campaign was underwritten by Harry F. Sinclair, the man to whom Secretary Fall leased Teapot Dome, out of which lease, together with that of Elk Hills reserve lease in California, Mr. Fall, according to testimony, has received more than $2,000,000.

"Yet this did not appear in the list of contributions to the campaign which the republican committee reported to congress, as required by law.

"The $1,000,000 limitation was not binding in 1922, when, among others, R. B. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, brother of the secretary of the treasury, gave $25,000 to the national committee and $1,000 to the republican congressional committee. Mr. Mellon is one of the chief owners of the aluminum trust, which, the federal trade commission reports, has profited hugely by the tariff on aluminum refined into the Fordney bill.

Took Care of Cotton King.

"Nor was it binding on Henry F. Harpitt, the Rhode Island cotton mill baron, who gave $10,000 to the 1922 fund, after the republicans had written enormously high rates on cotton manufactures into the Fordney tariff.

"That Chairman Butler's financiers know how to get around any limitation, whether it be $1,000 or $25,000, has been proved in Coolidge's own state, Massachusetts, this year, where there is a state statute limiting contributions to $1,000. But tariff-protected mill owners in that state, in appealing to other tariff beneficiaries to subscribe to funds for the campaign of Mr. Coolidge, told prospective contributors that 'there is no limit to the amount an individual may give to this committee. Large contributions will be so divided as to give full observance to the requirements of the statutes.'

Sinclair "Financial Angel."

"With a limit of $1,000 in 1920 and more than eight million dollars raised and expended through national and state headquarters, what expenditures may be made in 1924, with the limit raised to $25,000?

"That all the money raised and expended may never be known is asserted on as high an authority as the senate committee headed by Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, which investigated 1920 expenditures. Of the expenditures it was able to discover, that committee said in its report to the senate: 'These figures do not by any means represent the entire amount of money expended in the campaign.' They did not include the $75,000 which Harry F. Sinclair underwrote, and about which nothing would ever have been known had not the lease of the naval oil reserves brought about the investigation that disclosed, among other things, how Mr. Sinclair had been one of Mr. Hays' 'financial angels.'

DOHENY CALLS WILBUR DEFEND OIL LEASES.

Washington, October 15.—Chairman Shaver, of the democratic national committee, said in a statement issued tonight at democratic headquarters:

"Secretary of the Navy Wilbur has been subpoenaed to testify for the defense in the suits to determine the legality of the Doheny oil leases in southern California.

"Former Secretary of the Navy Daniels has been subpoenaed to testify for the government.

"There you have the story of the oil scandals in a nutshell. The need of Doheny for the help of the present secretary of the navy, who was muzzled by President Cool-

TECH MEN SHIFTED AS NITTANY LION QUITS LAIR

Gardner Running at End With Tharpe at Tackle; Wilton May Go in at Half

BY JOHN STATION.

It goes without saying that Penn State rules as the favorite in the game Saturday with Tech, but, in spite of Penn State's success so far this season, there is plenty of reason to believe that the game will be close. Penn State will probably win the game, but the margin of victory should be much smaller than the relative strength would indicate.

First, Coach Alexander will probably make some changes in the lineup which will improve Tech's play immeasurably. It was gratifying to note Wednesday afternoon that George Gardner had been shifted out to his old position at end. Gardner's experience at the flank position will be invaluable to the team in the game Saturday. Further, it will add much needed weight to the Tech line.

Penn State is bringing a heavy team to Tech. It is a heavy line, which will average around 190 pounds. Tech needs as much weight as possible in the rush line to combat such an array of pounds.

Tharpe at Tackle. With Gardner shifted to end, Tharpe will go in at tackle. Tharpe weighs about 185 pounds. Nabell, who will be replaced by Gardner, weighs only 165. Twenty pounds will help, especially on the end of the line.

It is also probable that a change will be made in the backfield. Two or three possibilities should be examined. First, Moore may replace Wilton; the rest of the backfield remaining intact. Tech will lose weight, but gain experience by that change.

Then it may be that Wilton will be shifted to halfback, running with Williams; Wycoff to play full and Bob Reeves to play quarterback, calling signals and acting as safety man.

Still another combination would be to use Moore at quarterback, Williams at halfback, Wycoff at fullback, and let Reeves and Wilton alternate at the other half. Of the three, it seems more likely that the first combination will be used, and that Farnsworth and Wilton will be held back as reserves.

Wilton has been handicapped all season by injuries and sickness, and needs a rest. Further, he has never played college football before, and this is a decided disadvantage to him.

Shows Real Offense. Tech showed the buds of a real offense yesterday. For the first time this season the team advanced the ball continuously down the field for a touchdown. The line was opening up well, the backs were hitting the holes and both line and backfield showed drive, a characteristic which has been lacking in previous endeavor.

It is significant to note that Tech has not scored a single touchdown this season by virtue of concerted driving power. The team in no game has shown any sustained offense. Tech scored two touchdowns against Oglethorpe, but both came as the result of intercepted forward passes.

Against V. M. I. Tech could not push over the line, although it did get as close as the 10-yard line in the first quarter. Against Florida, Ivan Williams had tackle and Wycoff's alertness were responsible for the score.

In spite of that record Tech has a real chance to score against the Lions. With an improved backfield and a heavier line, Tech ought to gain some ground. Tech has good plays, if the quarterbacks will call them. What both backfield and line need most of all, however, is drive and lots of it.

Needs Good Pass System. Tech so far this season has shown no dazzling pass attack, and probably will not show one this season. Rome was not built in a day. Neither can an efficient pass system be constructed overnight. Heretofore the team has not been compelled to rely on passes to win its victories. Now it is different, and Tech really needs a good pass system. She will have it in time, but it cannot come all at once.

Still another possibility is that Tech will use a more conservative system, however, which she can use in time of dire necessity. And, no doubt, they will be used frequently on Saturday.

CAMP POINTS TO TENDER SPOTS

BY WALTER CAMP. (Copyright, 1924.) Special Licensed Wire.

New York, October 15.—Here is a summary of some of the vital and tender spots in the anatomy of prominent football teams as they stand today.

Yale: Has not finally settled upon a quarterback. But to the writer's mind, a far more serious point is in the lack of development of the line. It looked for a time as if their kicking might be weak with the amount of protection the rest of the team provided, but failing seems now to get distance and height with some reason drive, a characteristic which has been lacking in previous endeavor.

Princeton: The Tiger eleven must run down to earth with a steady dependable trio on offense and defense. The team is fast and the forward passing well conceived, but there is still a lack of regularity in the charge and sometimes in the passing, and an unsteadiness which will be more noticeable when the Tiger meet some bigger game. They are fumbling badly, and that too, in their best running game.

Harvard: The Crimson still lacks cohesion between backs and line. Every now and then the line is moving forward all right when the backs hit—but not always. And it certainly does knock the confidence out of a backfield man to have his own line coming toward him when he strikes.

Auburn: The Tiger eleven must run down to earth with a steady dependable trio on offense and defense. The team is fast and the forward passing well conceived, but there is still a lack of regularity in the charge and sometimes in the passing, and an unsteadiness which will be more noticeable when the Tiger meet some bigger game. Cleared in Series Scandal

FRANK FRISCH.

Frisch, Young and Kelly were cleared yesterday by Judge Landis of implication in the attempt of Jimmy O'Connell, New York National league player, to bribe Heinie Sand, of the Philadelphia Nationals, to "throw" a game to the Giants.

Wake Forest, N. C., October 15.—(Special.)—The attention of Luis Angelo Firpo and Jack Dempsey is called to the fact that 28 students of Wake Forest college have this year been organized into a boxing class by Assistant Coach Phil Utley.

He is teaching the students all that he knows about the many art of self-defense, as absorbed at various schools of physical education. Some promising material is declared to have been introduced at Wake Forest and in all probability matches will be scheduled with some of the other schools of the state. Carolina introduced this sport last year and State is reported to have preparations for it under way. Utley is now giving consideration to a letter man from Carolina enquiring as to chances for a match.

ROPER WANTS LAST SEASON AT PRINCETON TO BE SUCCESS

Princeton, N. J., October 15.—Bill Roper, veteran Princeton coach, and says this will be his last year as lessor of the Tiger on the gridiron. Going on that basis he wants his farewell appearance to be a memorable one.

To aid him in whipping the somewhat battered Tiger of 1923 into shape he has Herb Treat, all-American tackle in 1922, who is back to drill the tackles; Van Gerbig, flashy halfback on last year's eleven, in charge of the backs; Jack Winn, a star end in '19 to help the wingmen, and Al Wittmer in charge of the line.

He has Captain Stout, a veteran of two years and captain of the hockey team as well, at one end, with Tillson, a fast end who has won his letter in football for the past two years, holding down the other wing position. Gates, big and aggressive, a sub last season, has a struggle on one tackle position with Rosenbaum, a sophomore who has shown up well in practice to date, holding down the other tackle job. Hills, the giant shot-putter who earned his letter in basketball, is playing one guard, with Howard, another two-year veteran, at the other. Forrest, out with injuries last year, completes the center trio. There is plenty of competition for the backfield berths with Caldwell, Slagle, Weeks, and Gibson shifting the call.

Caldwell was a great defensive back on the 1922 championship team but was shifted to center last year. Roper has him back at his old place this year where he is still exhibiting deadly tackling combined with an uncanny habit of catching forward passes.

Slagle was captain of the 1923 yearling team and would be an asset on any team. He is the best punter and passer on the squad and in addition can drop-kick and carry the ball in a highly satisfactory manner. Weeks is another sophomore who has shown up well—he is exceptionally fast and a heavy runner. Gibson was a sub last year and in addition to a highly educated toe rivals Caldwell for the honors as a defensive back.

Second Stringers Strong. The subs are plentiful and for the most part experienced. Drews, who played end last year, is back and he and Shackleford, a converted halfback, are second choice wingmen. Beatle, who played in the backfield for two years, has been shifted to the line.

Nicaragua Revolt Completely Denied. Managua, Nicaragua, October 15.—There is no revolutionary movement in Nicaragua. The country is completely quiet and it is expected martial law, which has been in effect for some time, will be lifted at any moment.

Dispatch from San Salvador Tuesday night said a report had been received there to the effect that General Emiliano Chamorro, who was defeated in the recent presidential elections, was heading a revolt in Nicaragua.

Insurance Sales Increase. New York, October 15.—Records for production of life insurance on paid-for basis, established for the first nine months of 1924 by the association of life insurance presidents, show the total new business written by 45 leading companies as $6,478,085,000, a 23 per cent increase over the same period of 1923.

RENTROP MAT MATCH SET FOR TONIGHT

Charles Rentrop, "the little giant," will meet Clarence Jenkins, son of the famous old champion, in a two-fall wrestling match at the city auditorium tonight at 8:30 o'clock under the auspices of the disabled American veterans of the world war. A fine card of preliminary bouts has been arranged to precede the main bout.

Tim Kelleher, matchmaker for the D. A. V., has announced that ladies with escorts will be admitted free of charge.

Both Rentrop and Jenkins are fit and ready for the match tonight. It will be Rentrop's second appearance here, he having thrown Chet Scales twice in an hour in his last appearance. Rentrop is out of the greatest of the experts of the headlock, and expects to beat his man with this punishing hold.

Jenkins has been trained from early boyhood by his father who lost the heavyweight championship to the late Frank Gotch. The elder Jenkins is anxious to see the title again in the hands of the Jenkins family and his 200-pound son has been working for years with this end in view.

Today he is considered one of the best men in the world and is in line for a match with Strangler Lewis for the championship. In all of his recent bouts Jenkins has made phenomenal showings and has won every contest of winning his match easily.

Popular prices will prevail.

STOUT PURCHASES SENSATIONAL TROTTER

Cleveland, Ohio, October 15.—Ed Stout, of Pontiac, Mich., today purchased Mary Watts (2-14 1-2) sensational trotter, from W. G. Douglas, Lexington, Ky., for a price reported to be near $10,000. The mare has won 10 consecutive races. She was placed in the stable of Will Malloy, Detroit horseman.

Williams, who nearly made history last year when he just missed getting away for a touchdown in the Harvard game, will probably alternate with Slagle in the backfield. With a broken field in front of him he metamorphoses himself into a cross between a punter and a fullback. In addition is a punter of no mean ability. S. Legendre, brother of M. Legendre, last year's backfield luminary, is another promising backfield sub. Goldstein, midge speed king, and Prendergast, a sophomore, are two more likely second-string men. Dignan is another hard-running back who will also probably see service this fall, and Gilligan, a scrappy line-pusher, may break into the first line, too, before the close of the season.

The schedule this fall is extra stiff. On October 18, the Orange and Black will act as hosts to the Navy and a week later will tackle Notre Dame. The following week Swarthmore approaches the schedule and then come the two big games. On November 8, Princeton will journey to Cambridge to meet Harvard and on November 15, Yale invades the Palmer Stadium. The Harvard game is the only one on the schedule to be played away from home.

Penn State's Star Quarter Hurt in Final Scrimmage; Gier May Replace Light

State College, Pa., October 15.—Penn State students gathered in the college auditorium tonight to give the Nittany Lions a rousing sendoff for their long trip to Atlanta to meet Georgia Tech on Saturday. Prolonged cheers greeted Coach Hugo Bezdek, Captain Gray and other players who were called on for brief speeches.

The Penn State party of about 22 players will leave here shortly before noon tomorrow, going by bus to Tyrone, where a special car will be in readiness to continue the journey via Washington, D. C.

Arrival in Atlanta is scheduled for 3:45 o'clock Friday afternoon and Coach Bezdek expects to get in a short practice session immediately after arrival. The party will have quarters at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Star Quarterback Hurt. The Penn State coach drove his squad through its third hard session of scrimmage today and despite the utmost care in tackling, Bill Baker, star quarterback, was forced to retire with an injured leg. Just how serious the injury may be could not be learned tonight, but it is not believed that he will be kept out of the game with Tech Saturday. If it is true he will have a hard blow to Penn State chances in this big away-from-home game.

The two elevens that will make the trip have been ordered to report at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning for a final signal drill, concluding just in time to eat lunch and embark for Tyrone.

In the final scrimmage today, Charley Light, veteran fullback, was back in the lineup, but Coach Bezdek refused to disclose his plans as to who will start the game. George Gier, 194-pound sophomore, has been coming along rapidly this week and it is possible that he may get the call over the veteran. If Light does not start, Captain Las Gray will be yanked back from center to do some of the punting, while Mike Michalski, a burly guard, and Gene Baker, halfback, can also be called upon for this work if necessary.

Players in Party. The players who will leave here tomorrow are as follows: Ends: Artell, Hays, Shaner, McPhie. Tackles: Prevost, McCann, Filack and Munn. Guards: House, Flock, and Well. Centers: Captain Gray and Rhoad. Quarterbacks: Bill Baker and Lafayette. Backs: Light, Helbig, Gene Baker, Gier, Buckley, Bergman and Sanford.

PLANS COMPLETE CAROLINA TEAMS GA.-FLA. GAME BATTLE TODAY

Bainbridge, October 14.—J. D. Bower, general chairman of plans for the entertainment and arrangements of affairs for the Georgia-Florida football game scheduled to be played on Bainbridge grounds November 22, from the Kiwanis club, which is fostering the game, with Vance Custer, president of the Lions club, and which organization is co-operating with the Kiwanis club for the success of the occasion, began meetings last night of the chairman of the 39 committees for the day.

The only chance in the previously outlined program is in the dances. Instead of having the two dances as was first decided upon, only one dance will be held and invitations reading "Georgia-Florida Hop" will be sent out for it, the dance to be held in the Bainbridge Country club.

Firpo Wants To Retrieve Lost Prestige in Ring

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

New York, N. Y., October 15.—Tex Rickard figures on an elimination heavyweight bout between Luis Firpo and Fred Fulton early next month at the Garden. Soon after losing to Gardner, the South American asked Rickard for another chance and it was Firpo's willingness to remain here that originated the idea of holding a series of eliminations between Firpo, Fulton, Renault, Tom Gibbons and Wills.

The Wild Bull isn't so keen about retiring from the ring. Firpo is very proud of his size and great strength. One day at Atlantic City while training for the fight with Dempsey, Luis posed impressively and one of his handlers asked him how he compared in size with Jim Jeffries.

I said that Jeffries in his fighting days was bigger physically. This was interpreted to Firpo, who shot a dark look in my direction and walked away in a huff.

Hurt His Pride. The defeat by Dempsey seriously hurt the South American's pride, but the setback in the Wills bout caused Luis to forget all about retiring. He is anxious to retrieve lost prestige and is willing to work up the ladder again.

Firpo believes he can beat Wills. The day after their last meeting the Wild Bull's body was covered with dark-colored ridges where Wills had battered him while holding with one arm. As he pointed out those bumps Luis told several intimate friends from down home that he would beat Wills in a return bout if only the rules would be strictly enforced.

The Argentine is a man of determination. He's set his mind on another bout with Wills and the enthusiasm with Fulton is the proof of Firpo's readiness to fight his way back.

Football Gains Popularity. Football is more popular than ever. Attendance records for early games in every section break records. The double wedding of Miss Elizabeth Lockhart and Maunet Davis, and Miss Helen Lockhart and Thomas H. Watkins, which was solemnized at the Decatur Presbyterian church last night, is of interest to the many friends of the Lockhart sisters, who starred on the famous Decatur girls' basketball teams of a few years back.

The Misses Lockhart, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Lockhart, of Decatur, played on the team and made many friends throughout the state while on trips with the Decatur team. Elizabeth played guard for Decatur in '18 and '19, while Helen played center during the seasons of '20, '21 and '22. The marriage of the latter was a secret, even members of the bridal party being unaware of it until the time came.

INJURIES FATAL TO CAGE PLAYER

Ohio, Texas, October 15.—Dennis Alexander struck his head against a post while playing basketball here today. Apparently unhurt, he continued playing. Several hours later he dropped dead on a street from a burst blood-vessel.

A shaving brush with handle that holds a shaving soap and talcum powder has been invented.

Lockhart Sisters Become Brides in Double Ceremony

Adding a beautiful bit of sentiment to the Lockhart-Davis wedding Wednesday evening at the First Presbyterian church in Decatur, and coming as a complete surprise to the assembled guests, was the marriage of Miss Helen Lockhart and Thomas Harlan Watkins, following immediately the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Lockhart and Victor Manget Davis.

Mrs. Watkins acted as her sister's maid of honor and in turn was attended by Mrs. Davis as her matron of honor.

The ceremonies were performed by the Rev. J. P. Wardlaw, the bride's grandfather, at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

The church rail, entrusted with southern similes, formed a pretty background for the fair, which was banked with palms and ferns, interspersed with seven-branched candelabra, holding lighted white tapers. White dahlias in pedestal baskets stood on either side of the altar. In front of this was a white arch, which was twined with smilax, white tulle and a spray of dahlias marked the pews for the families. Mrs. Crandall Prescott sang "Unto the Hills" just before the ceremony, during which Miss Anna Harwell, violinist, softly played "Old Aetrain." Miss Frances Burgess, organist, accompanied them and played the wedding marches, accompanied by Miss Harwell.

Wedding Attendants.

The bridesmaids and groomsmen entered in pairs, descending the lounge stairs singly. Miss Mariwall Hanes came first, wearing orchid satin crepe, trimmed with circles of ostrich in the same shade and held with French flowers. She carried pink dahlias. R. K. Vickery entered with her.

Next came Miss Martha Davis, the groom's sister, and Malcolma Lockhart, Jr.

Miss Davis wore silvery green satin crepe, trimmed with white ostrich and French flowers, and carried pale yellow dahlias.

Mrs. Donald Hastings and Ralston Watkins came next. Mrs. Hastings wore orchid satin crepe trimmed with orchid ostrich and French flowers and carried pink dahlias.

Miss Mattie Lee Toomer, of Portsmouth, Va., wore silvery green satin crepe, trimmed in white ostrich, and carried pale yellow dahlias. Donald Hastings entered with her.

Miss Catherine Nash and Henry Rice entered together. Miss Nash wore orchid satin crepe trimmed with orchid ostrich and French flowers. She carried pink dahlias.

Miss Mary Hewlett, of Conyers, and T. H. Watkins entered together. Miss Hewlett was gowning in silvery green satin crepe, trimmed with white ostrich and French flowers, and her flowers were pale yellow dahlias. All of the bridesmaids wore silver slippers and hair ornaments.

Miss Edna Lockhart was her sister's junior bridesmaid, and wore peach blow crepe, trimmed in ostrich, and carried pink dahlias.

Mrs. Henry Rice was matron of honor. She wore peach blow satin combined with georgette and carried dahlias of a deep orchid color.

Miss Helen Lockhart, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She also wore peach blow satin, combined with georgette, and carried dahlias of a deep orchid color.

Eleanor Miller and Martha Moore, flower girls, wore dainty frocks of white georgette and old lace, fashioned in a most becoming style. They carried baskets of small pastel-colored dahlias.

Master Billy Ernest, wearing a white satin suit, carried the ring in the heart of a white dahlia.

Lovely Bride.

The bride entered with her father, Malcolm Lockhart, who gave her in marriage.

She was lovely in her bridal robe of white satin crepe, trimmed with real lace. A lace panel hung each side of the dress. Flat white satin flowers ornamented the waistline. The court train was attached by a puff of white georgette.

The veil, which was made of tulle and real lace, showered with valley lilies, was caught to the bride's hair by a double bandeau of orange blossoms.

The bride's bouquet was of bride's roses and showered with lilies of the valley.

Following the double wedding, an informal reception was held at the home of the two brides.

The lower floor was thrown together and was attractively decorated with pastel-colored dahlias.

Mrs. Lockhart, mother of the two brides, wore black satin, trimmed in chenille and fur, and a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. J. S. Davis, mother of the first groom, wore green beaded georgette, and a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. F. O. Watkins wore black beaded georgette and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's book was kept by Miss Dorothy Manget.

Receiving with the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Lockhart, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Davis, of Rome; Mrs. W. C. Wardlaw, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Lee House, of Fort Valley; Mrs. E. M. Lockhart, of Portsmouth, Va.; and Mrs. T. L. Ross, of Macon, Ga.

Miss Lucy Tucker Weds Mr. Violette.

An unusually beautiful wedding of Wednesday afternoon was that of Miss Lucy Tucker, daughter of Mrs. Page Tucker, and Joseph Berret Violette, which took place at the home of the bride's mother on Orme circle at 7:30 o'clock.

Dr. Ashby Jones, cousin of the bride, performed the impressive ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives.

The house was beautifully decorated with a profusion of palms and ferns in artistic arrangement. Lovely bowls and baskets of cosmos and dahlias, in the pastel shades, were placed on the mantels, bookcases and consoles and lent a charming setting for the wedding.

Wedding Music.

Mrs. Humber Patterson rendered the wedding music and before the ceremony played "Venetian Love Song." During the ceremony Mrs. James Mann sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. Patterson wore a lovely gown of orchid georgette, beautifully beaded, and her corsage was of Ophelia roses.

Mrs. Mann's gown was of white georgette and her corsage was of Ophelia roses.

The ceremony took place in the living room. An improvised altar of palms banked at the far end formed a beautiful background. In front of them, ferns and large white baskets of long stemmed white dahlias were placed in effective arrangement, with brass candelabra holding white lighted tapers. The soft light of the many candles, casting a mellow glow over all, was a lovely effect for this beautiful occasion.

To the strains of Lohengrin's bridal chorus, Miss Ashby Tucker, her sister's maid of honor, and the only attendant, entered. She wore a beautiful gown of orchid chiffon, with an artistic trimming of embroidery in a deeper tone of orchid. She carried a lovely bouquet of Columbia roses.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride entered with the bridegroom. She was a picture of loveliness in her beautiful bridal gown of white georgette and old lace, fashioned in a most becoming style. The filmy white tulle veil was held to her head by a coronet formed of orange blossoms and lace, the delicate motif of the lace outlined with seed pearls. The veil fell in graceful lengths forming the train. Her beautiful bouquet was of bride's roses and valley lilies that fell in cascade effect over her arm.

Following the ceremony Mrs. Tucker entertained at an informal wedding reception.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with an exquisite cloth and held as a central decoration a silver basket filled with dahlias in the lovely pastel shades. Smilax was garlanded in attractive arrangement and four lavender tapers burned in silver candle holders.

Mrs. Tucker was handsomely gowning in gray georgette, beautifully embroidered, and with this she wore a corsage of Ophelia roses.

Mrs. Violette, mother of the bridegroom, wore a beaded gown of black lace and her corsage was of Ophelia roses.

Wedding Journey.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Violette left for a wedding journey and they will be at home in Winston-Salem, N. C., upon their return.

Mrs. Violette's going-away gown was an ensemble costume of midnight blue, trimmed in fur. With this she wore a most becoming hat of dark blue.

Mrs. Violette is the daughter of Mrs. Page Tucker and the late Anson W. Tucker. She is a niece of the late Dr. John William Jones, chaplain, who was stationed with the army in northern Virginia for many years. She attended college at Ocker and later at Columbia university.

Mr. Violette is the son of Mrs. Annie De Cormis Violette, of Hampton, Va. He attended college at the University of Virginia. He is now prominently connected with J. O. Spinks & Co., architects, in Winston-Salem, N. C.

CO-EDS CLIPPED OF MOTOR WINGS BY DEAN'S EDICT

Bloomington, Ind., October 15.—Girl students at Indiana university were refused permission to motor out of side of Bloomington in an edict issued today by Agnes E. Wells, dean of women.

They also were denied the privilege of possessing an automobile while attending the university, except during the two weeks at the opening and closing of the school year.

The rule was placed, it was said, because of poor scholastic standing. Dean Wells said 50 per cent of the co-eds who were forced to leave school because of low grades were known to have spent much time in automobiles.

NO DECISION REACHED ON MOVING SEMINARY

Clinton, S. C., October 15.—After a debate lasting nearly all morning on the question of removing the Columbia Theological Seminary from Columbia to Atlanta, the South Carolina synod in session here today made the removal question a special order for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when the final decision will be reached.

The Presbyterian churches of Columbia and civic organizations of that city made a fight for retention of the seminary in Columbia. The Rev. Kirkman G. Finlay, bishop of the upper diocese of the Episcopal church of South Carolina, Mayor W. A. Cole, and Henry Fair represented the chamber of commerce. The Rev. J. Sproule Lyons, of Atlanta, and the Rev. E. L. Hill, of Athens, of commissioners of Georgia for that synod, made speeches urging the immediate removal of the seminary to Atlanta.

ALABAMA SYNOD WILL ACT TODAY.

Entaw, Ala., October 15.—A proposal to remove the Columbia Theological seminary from Columbia, S. C., to Atlanta, Ga., was presented to the Alabama Presbyterian synod today. A proposition to divide the North Alabama presbytery sections was informally discussed today and will be voted on at a later session.

Congressman B. W. Oliver was elected moderator in the opening session last night, succeeding Dr. Dunbar T. Ogden, of Mobile.

SLAMS AND SALAMS

By Louise Dooly

ANOTHER Englishman, after traveling a few minutes in our midst, tells us all about ourselves.

Roland Pertwee, writing in the Ladies' Home Journal of the "conventionality" of the American woman, says that she allows her husband to get as far as the preliminary clearing of his throat.

But it's all in the point of view. One of Mr. Pertwee's distinguished countrywomen, visiting also in America not long ago, was quoted as envying American women, because American men encouraged them to converse. The men talked with them about common interests and things in general, and the women could hold their own in such discourse, and make themselves worth-while.

At about the same time we met another English woman, herself a conversationalist with personality to strengthen the interest always of what she had to say. She had enjoyed much social experience in this country, and was at that time sojourning in the south, and being entertained by southern people.

"It is very remarkable to me," she remarked one evening at a dinner party, "how your southern women can keep the conversational ball rolling. At our table this evening there was never one moment's cessation—not even for the traditional passing of angel's wings. One woman dropped a remark, and another picked it up, and tossed it on, and somebody else as quickly kept it in the air. Although, and she smiled a bit maliciously, 'it was often not worth in itself such exertion of skill. But there was preserved by this battle-dore and shuttlecock game, a great appearance of gaiety.'"

SOCIAL ANEMIA. "YOUR groups are so dainty, too. The same little sets are always together. How can you stand it? I should think your social life would die for lack of new blood."

Both Englishwomen were probably right. The former was more fortunate in the people with whom her lines in America were thrown.

It was the critical comment, however, that set us to thinking and naturally we thought towards the women of the south.

When they are good conversationalists, they are the most delightful in the world.

We said conversationalists, not talkers.

The difference is, of course, that the talker does it all; and had she the voice of a Bernhardt, the brain of a De Stael, and the lure of a Cleopatra, her listeners, if they are allowed to be only listeners, would grow tired.

In a dinner group such as our English friend describes, it is recognized that the clever woman is not the skilled wielder of the battle-dore, although she must be able to contribute her wit to an occasional touch and go of talk. The brilliant conversationalist invigorates, rather than satisfies. She exploits, not herself, but her listeners (they call themselves).

She is provocative, rather than informative. Or if she is informative, she must have a great name or a great position as her apology.

She is appreciative of what you say, and gives you the impression that she will carry much away to dream on. And she, needless to say, is the conversationalist, of whom you are most likely to remark, when she has gone, "What a charming woman, and how delightful to hear her talk!"

FOREIGN EXCHANGE. THE current event in music of most genuine significance number two, and, as it happens, both have a "hands-across-the-sea" feature.

One is the engagement of Ernest Newman, English music critic, to do the reviews for the New York Evening Post for the season just beginning.

The Post has precedence for this enterprise in the action last fall of the New York Times, which brought over H. C. Colles from London to relieve temporarily from the greater burden of the job the veteran Richard Aldrich, and also to give readers of the Times the benefit of a European's viewpoint of music as we do it here.

This importation of critics, too, is interestingly in line with the practice of guest conductors for America's symphony orchestras, of which we have an astonishing collection, both in number and magnificence.

MECHANICAL (?) MUSIC. THE other current event hinges on the first appearance at the head of The Boston Symphony orchestra of its new conductor, Serge Koussevitzky.

Boston for some reason or other acted almost like any other American city over the debut of a new artist of whom it expected much and was not disappointed in its first impression. It was quite vociferous in its enthusiasm.

But that is not the point. Koussevitzky is no doubt master of his art, but he will have to turn figurative handspins to surpass the work of his contemporaries at the head of other great American symphony bands.

The thing that most interests us plain people is the character of the new music he brought over, of which the most startling thing he played at the first concert was Honegger's symphonic movement, "Pacific 231."

Now, "Pacific 231," if you don't know it, is a locomotive. And that is not some obscure musical term, but it means a sure enough, honest-to-goodness iron horse that pulls freight cars or Pullmans, even day coaches and baggage.

The composer is quoted as having said "I have always had a passionate love of locomotives. To me they—and I love them passionately as others are passionate in their love for horses, or women—are living creatures."

Olin Downes in the New York Times says of the first performance in Boston, "Honegger has attempted to give a formal portrayal of the great monster, the joyous giant as it stands motionless, just breathing; as it starts its movement; as it hurtles through the night at 120 miles an hour. The music is superbly made; it is witty and joyous, full of youth; a laughing welcome to the day and its dynamic power."

That was a very human piece for Honegger to write. Cultured Boston rose to it, and yet it is the kind of thing that might reconcile even the musically irreconcilable to listening to a symphony orchestra.

It's up to some American composer now to translate into music the American world filer's trip around the world. With the buzz of the motors for the basis of instrumentation, there would be all the imaginative possibilities of a thousand and one Arabian nights in the circling of the globe, which contrasted for the fliers scenes as unchanged as in the days when caliphs wandered in the market place in the night for human contacts, with twentieth century life of which Honegger's locomotive is a good symbol.

Service Star Legion To Aid Blinded World War Veterans

Photograph by Weller-Lewis. Mrs. Henry Fenimore Baker, of Baltimore, Md., president of the National Service Star Legion, frequently called the "War Mothers," who is asking the nation to aid work for blinded ex-service men.

"Blinded veterans of the world war are seeking happiness. Will you help them find it?"

This is the question the War Mothers' Service Star Legion will ask the United States of America during the week which begins on Sunday, October 19. Mrs. Henry F. Baker, of Baltimore, Md., national president of the legion has addressed this question to Georgia women through Mrs. Sam D. Jones, of Atlanta, president of the Atlanta chapter, and regional director of the national organization.

Sunday is to be proclaimed "Blind Veterans' Sunday" by the president of the United States and the governors of the various states and led by the newly incorporated organization for United States Blind Veterans of the World War. War mothers of the nation will enter actively into a campaign to answer that question in the affirmative. War mothers banded together under Mrs. Sam D. Jones' leadership during the world war, drawn into a unit by common suffering, and its only demand of a member is "had you a loved one enrolled under the stars and stripes during those crucial days when the right to liberty as America understands it was at stake?" If so, if son or husband or brother, or daughter, then the common tie that binds these hearts together is there and welcome is extended.

War Mothers Respond. It is this band of women who re-

men, "Remember, they gave their best for you. What will you give for them? They are striving to make themselves useful workers instead of dependents; producers, rather than burdens on their loved ones. They are denied the ecstasy of physical vision, their activities are necessarily circumscribed even in the most pleasant environment. Will you become one of those to assist in guiding them through the No Man's Land between sudden darkness and the time when the Gentle Hand will remove your responsibility?"

"Through the untiring efforts of the United States Blind Veterans of the World War, the 68th congress passed legislation providing for the establishment of a permanent national vocational school for the rehabilitation of blind ex-service men."

Happier Together. "Thorough investigation has established the fact that many blinded ex-service men are happier and achieve more when grouped. And many of these men do not receive compensation because of some technical flaw in their records, some of these blinded veterans have no home, others find existing home environment unsatisfactory because their sightless intimates fail to comprehend their difficulties."

To rectify this grievous suffering this utterly unnecessary humiliation endured by men robbed on the battlefield of one of God's greatest gifts, the United States Blind Veterans of the World War proposes to erect a home, the first unit of which will have a capacity of 100, dining room for 165 and seating capacity of 300, reading rooms, work rooms, bowling alleys, canteen and office. It is planned to establish a legitimate market for the product of the vocational and commercial endeavors undertaken by permanent residents of the center. To accomplish this purpose not less than $1,000,000 is needed, one-half for building and equipment, one-half for endowment fund.

Personnel of Organization. The organization, incorporated under the name of U. S. Blind Veterans, is headed by Raymond E. Day, commander; Alois F. Green, vice commander; John J. Austin, adjutant; James P. Funk, chaplain; Arthur Yost, sergeant-at-arms; Charles S. Bennett, historian.

The executive committee includes Charles L. Branner, William D. Cichowski, Earl L. Booher, Lawrence A. Bunce, Bernard Corcoran, Harvey E. Gilbert, and the organization address is P. O. Box No. 588, Baltimore, Md. National headquarters is at York road and Cold Spring lane, Baltimore. It was incorporated under act of congress, June 7, 1924, and under the laws of Maryland, April 16, 1924.

On the board of advisors are General John J. Pershing, Judge K. M. Landis, Senator David A. Reed, Ex-Governor Philip Lee Goldsborough, Hon. John W. Garrett, Hon. Hamilton Fish, Jr. and Mrs. Laura Z. Wainwright.

The board of trustees is composed of Raymond E. Day, president; James P. Funk, vice president; John J. Austin, secretary; Harvey E. Gilbert, treasurer; Michael Insellbush, E. W. Entriker, Lawrence A. Bunce, W. V. Cichowski and Charles Branner.

Listed among those endorsing the movement are President Coolidge, Governor New York, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Ralph Pulitzer, of The New York World; the General Federation of Women's Clubs, James A. McFarland, national commander; Disabled American Veterans, Mrs. Katherine Barrett, of the American Legion auxiliary; the Permanent Blind Relief War Fund, incorporated, incorporated, and Mrs. Henry F. Baker, national president of the War Mothers.

The recent convention of the War Mothers Service Star Legion, held in Salt Lake City, endorsed the movement to render definite help to blinded veterans, help long overdue, and pledged active support to the work. On Tuesday at the meeting of the Atlanta chapter, Mrs. Porter King, whom Mrs. Jones has appointed chairman for Atlanta, outlined plans for furthering this cause.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Bathing Caps. Bathing caps will keep from year to year if proper care is taken to protect them. Sprinkle talcum powder both inside and outside and then stuff the inside of the cap with soft tissue paper. Cover with another sheet of paper and pack away.

When Measuring. If you have but one measuring cup, think before you start measuring articles of a recipe. When dry ingredients, liquids and fats are called for in the same recipe, measure in the order given, and one cup will be found adequate.

Before Laundering. It is wise to look over the table linen for any fruit stains before bundling them off to the laundry. Spirits of camphor poured on them before washing will loosen the stains and cause them to disappear with ordinary laundering.

They Prove Tempting. Most children are fond of raisins, and frequently a few raisins added to a nourishing pudding will encourage the child to eat the dessert when he otherwise would balk.

French Alliance To Meet Today.

The French Alliance will have its first meeting this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Biltmore Hotel. The literary program will be a lecture by Charles Lorrain, the president, upon the timely subject of Anatole France, who died a few days ago.

Anatole France (born Jacques A. Thibault) great French author and veteran philosopher has for many years been regarded as the greatest living man of letters in France, and one of the foremost writers and thinkers of the world.

Mr. Lorrain will speak of Monsieur France's private and public life, recalling many interesting incidents of his long career, as a man and as a writer. His works will be explained, and the characters that he has created will be reviewed, with an endeavor to show the influence of his ideas in literature and in politics. Selected quotations will be read from his principal books.

The musical program will be furnished by Mme. Joseph Brown, talented French musician and singer. Among other numbers there will be a selection from "Thais," the story being from Anatole France.

There is no charge of admission, the aim of the French Alliance is to encourage the study of the French language, literature and art and all interested and those who speak French are welcome to this meeting.

Art Committee Plans Feature.

The school committee of the Atlanta Art association, headed by Mrs. H. H. Harris, chairman, has arranged another interesting feature during National Picture week in the Junior high schools of the city.

On Thursday Wilbur Katz, well known Atlanta artist, will paint a sketch in oil for the pupils of the Hoke Smith school. Mrs. Henry Scott will do the same at Bass Junior High. On Friday Miss Virginia Woolley will paint at the O'Keefe Junior High school and Tom Delbridge at Joe Brown High school.

These artists are giving their time and talent to explain in as direct way as possible the methods used by the artists in painting a picture, giving the children an idea of the use of colors, palette and easel in making a 40-minute sketch.

In the grammar schools lectures illustrated by lantern slides will be given during the entire week by Mrs. Himmann and Miss Ruth Northen.

Mrs. Himmann, the enthusiastic chairman of this committee, gave an interesting talk to the Forwalt Street school on Tuesday. She was assisted in this lecture by Miss Ruth Northen, who furnished her machine to illustrate Mrs. Himmann's talk.

These two able speakers gave an interesting illustrated talk at Miss Ella Smilie's school on Wednesday, where they spoke to 400 children.

Mrs. John Rowlette will speak at Lee Street school on Thursday, assisted by Miss Ina Con. Miss Irene Smilie will talk to Edgewood and to Luckie Street schools.

Oglethorpe Board Will Meet.

There will be a very important meeting of the executive committee of the Oglethorpe woman's board in the palm room of the Atlanta Woman's club Monday afternoon, October 20, at 3 o'clock.

Members are urged to attend promptly, as important business is to be transacted and the meeting will last only one hour.

Mrs. J. K. Otley, chairman, will preside.

State Music Editor Praises Program.

An illustrated lecture on the fundamentals of music was given Wednesday by Miss Madeline Keipp, under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Club. Mrs. Lillian Huntley Harris, state editor of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, in speaking of the lecture said: "It was both a treat and an inspiration."

Miss Evelyn Jackson, the second vice president of the state federation, spoke on the "Development of the Music" into the finished product of the federation as it stands today. Miss Jackson went on to say that to enjoy real music one must prepare one's self for its proper reception, and when later Miss Keipp said that the general public ranked in the fourteenth class as to enjoyment of music, one felt the crying need more than ever of musical education, says Mrs. Harris.

Miss Keipp illustrated her lecture by playing Victor records. The first was a hymn found in an old Irish temple and sung to the Delphic Apollo.

SICK WOMAN MADE HAPPY

Entirely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mart, Texas.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up as I was all run down, nervous and sick. I lached and hurt all over so that I was often compelled to go to bed. I had to have most of my work done. No medicine seemed to help me until one of my neighbors who was taking the Vegetable Compound insisted on me trying a bottle of it. The medicine helped me from the first, and the best of all is that I can even see again without that awful, nervous feeling I was used to having. And I used to take crying spells, with such a blue feeling that I cannot explain. Now all that has left me. I feel so cheerful, and I have gained in weight, sleep well and eat hearty. Oh I wish I had words to express what this medicine has done for me! I am a housekeeper and do every thing from the sewing to the washing now and it doesn't hurt me. You may use my letter in any way you wish. I will be glad to help any suffering woman to the road of health and happiness."

Mrs. R. F. BRANNON, 404 Travis Ave., Mart, Texas

and finally adopted by the National Federation of Music Clubs at the biennial at Asheville, North Carolina the summer of 1923. It is a four year course, issued in four volumes, edited by William Arms Fisher of Boston. The first year, "The Fundamentals of Music," by Karl W. Gehrken; second year, "From Song to Symphony," by Daniel Gregory Mason; third year, "Musical Instruments," by Edgar Stillman Kelley; fourth year, "Epochs in Musical Progress," by Clarence G. Hamilton.

Mr. Gehrken writes in such a pleasing conversational style that the driest of technical terms becomes fascinatingly interesting, a text perfect. In this first lesson he tells of the notation of music, reume notation, development of staff notation, the elements of modern staff notation, analysis of pitch and rhythm notation, tone length and definitions of terms pertaining to notation.

Miss Keipp departed a little from his outline, but held to the central theme both entertainingly and pedagogically. Miss Keipp used the Victor talking machine to illustrate "Lesson 1," using the Hymn of Apollo, Hymn of Charlemagne Hymn to John the Baptist, Lament for Charlemagne and Crusader's Hymn. Another interesting feature of the "lesson" was the showing of musical drawings done by a pupils of Miss Keipp's, Miss Mary Elizabeth Hutchinson of Agnes Scott. The drawings show the color and kind of notation.

Mrs. W. P. Bailey of Savannah, state president of the Federation of Music Clubs, made a short talk, complimenting the Atlanta club on its work, putting special emphasis on the success of this first "lesson" and congratulating the club on its possession of so splendid a leader as Miss Keipp for the course of study.

J. C. FLEMISTER, 58, DIES AT MANSFIELD

Mansfield, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—J. C. Flemister, 58, died at his home here today. A short talk, by his widow, two sons and two daughters. Mr. Flemister was one of the pioneer merchants of Mansfield and a member of the Methodist church.

Dr. Lovelidge states that the discussion Sunday afternoon will be of particular interest and importance, in that it will give every one a very definite understanding of the reality of the image of God, and will illustrate the purpose and the presence of the image of God in all human affairs. The lecture is open to all who wish to attend.

EX-PREMIER FORMING CABINET IN SWEDEN

Stockholm, October 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dr. Hjalmar Branting, former premier and leader of the socialist-democratic party, at the request of King Gustav, has undertaken to form a new cabinet to succeed that of Ernest Trygger, which resigned yesterday.

MISS RAOUL SPEAKS AT AMERICUS MEETING

Americus, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—Speaking before an audience comprised largely of women in the courthouse here today, Miss Eleanor Raoul declared the main effort of the Georgia League of Women Voters now is to bring about a revision of the existing taxing system in Georgia. She referred also to the fight made in Atlanta by women voters to secure a commission form of government for that city, and in closing advised her hearers to vote for administrative ability rather than for good handshaking.

Miss Raoul was introduced by Congressman Charles R. Crisp, who also presented Miss Carlella Sanders, field secretary of the state Woman's club, who made a short address touching on the welfare work done by that organization.

W. W. Dykes, member of the Georgia democratic executive committee, opened the meeting. He emphasized the importance of all voters exercising their right of franchise on election day.

STALKS PLOUGHED IN TO KILL BOLL WEEVIL

Bainbridge, Ga., October 15.—(Special.)—The last effort in this year's campaign to kill the boll weevil in Decatur county is being made by the destruction of cotton stalks. Farmers are ploughing under all stalks, explaining that they consider it the most effective weapon they can wield against the boll weevil.

Farmers, who used calcium arsenate this year, are preparing for complete eradication next season. Weather conditions have been ideal for ploughing in the stalks.

Nearly 30,000 automobiles made in France in seven months this year were shipped to other countries.

Science finds way to fight disease with "health germs"

The remarkable health, vigor and long life of Bulgarian peasants was for years a scientific mystery. Then Prof. Elie Metchnikoff traced it to their diet—composed largely of artificially soured milk.

This milk, they found, was soured by a sort of bacteria which, when introduced into the body, lodged in the intestine, grew into colonies and destroyed the germs which cause so many bodily ills. They warded off premature old age, and prevented that form of self-poisoning known as "auto-intoxication."

Effective—and Safe

The effects of this treatment on the human body have been nothing short of amazing. Patients suffering from obstinate cases of constipation, diarrhoea, nervous depression due to bowel conditions, and allied ailments have reported prompt and marked benefits from its use. It is not merely a laxative. It has none of the harmful effects of drugs. It is not a temporary expedient, but a safe and potent method of removing the cause of these disorders.

Now Offered to Public

This method has been known for some time among medical practitioners and used by them with telling effect.

It is now made available for the general public as "CULTUR-LAC."

"CULTUR-LAC" is a concentrated form of the same cleansing and curative agent which made the Bulgarian peasants famous for vigor and long life. It contains the germ cultures of the Bacillus Bulgaricus and Bacillus Acidophilus, of which the latter is the more important.

HAILED with enthusiasm by eminent Medical Authorities for Auto-intoxication which is generally shown by the following symptoms:

Persistent Fatigue	Skin Eruptions
Loss of physical tone	Dizziness
Constipation or Diarrhoea	Rheumatism
Gas	Sallow Skin
Flatulence	Anemia
Heart Burn	Bad Breath
Headache	Hardening of the Arteries
Sleeplessness	High Blood Pressure
Eczema

A VALUABLE ANTISEPTIC

For cuts, burns, bites, open sores and any open wound, CULTUR-LAC is an ideal dressing to prevent serious infection and assure quick, safe healing. Every mother should keep a bottle handy for emergencies.

CULTUR-LAC

Get Genuine CULTUR-LAC

CULTUR-LAC is the original formula of Bacillus Bulgaricus and Bacillus Acidophilus. It has brought new life and vigor to sufferers from auto-intoxication. It is recommended as a valuable antiseptic for infected wounds or ulcers. Get genuine CULTUR-LAC from your druggist and be sure of the right preparation.

CULTUR-LAC is sold at leading drug stores in 4-ounce bottles. If you are suffering from any of the many effects of intestinal auto-intoxication, you owe it to yourself to try this new treatment. It cannot harm you. It may save your life.

Second Audience Rehearsal

THE CONDUCTOR AND HIS AUDIENCE

For Big Symphony Concerts

BY H. KNOX SPAIN.

"Onlooker" and "listener" in place—on time—and silent. The steps forward, baton raised—the rehearsal is called.

Turning back a page, briefly listen again to the personality of the "brasses" and "percussion." The horn is romantic or evil and repulsive; the trumpet, martial and bold; the trombone, solemn or menacing; tuba, brutal and powerful; tympani (kettle drum), explosive or forbidding; cymbals, gay; tambourine, Spanish. There is the harp, celestial; the piano, almost human.

The method of sound of the brass section—the musical tones result from the vibration of columns of air or substance of air currents, and under special pitch control by the lips. The instruments of percussion by the blow, click or clasp.

The construction material of the brass section is brass, silver, gold and copper; the instruments of percussion, wood, metal and parchment.

The Origin.

By origin, we mean the orchestral origin of the instruments. Horns have been known from the earliest times and every savage tribe that is at all musical will possess some form of horn made of bone, ivory or even wood.

The Greeks and Romans used the horns and trumpets chiefly for military purposes. The medieval use of the horn was to give hunting signals. The horn, passing through a change of form during the time of Louis X, Charles IX and Louis XIII, gradually came to consist of three large circles different but slightly from that of the present orchestral horn. The introduction of the horn, often called the French horn, into the Paris orchestra is said to have been due to the composer Gossec. It was received with great opposition at first. It was considered coarse and vulgar, unfit to mingle with the more refined violins and oboes. Time has reversed this verdict and the smooth, velvety tone of the horn is today one of the most prized colors of the orchestra. Trumpets were constantly in use during the middle ages, especially in the period when chivalry flourished. Until the time of Beethoven the individual character of the trumpet's tone was rarely used. Although the tuba was not admitted to the orchestra until the nineteenth century, it is one of the oldest of instruments. Its invention is claimed for Pythagoras in the early date of 685 B. C. and yet some give the credit to the mythical Osiris. The cornet belongs to the brass band and is a valuable member. The tuba was invented by Wiprecht, a famous German band master and trombonist, in 1835.

The instruments of percussion are generally termed "the batteries." In this section we find the tympani or kettle drum, the snare drum, bass drum, tambourine, bells, xylophone, triangle, cymbals, gong or tom-tom, chimes or bells and castanets. In olden days the drums were used only to accentuate the rhythm. Bach used them as solo instruments in the opening of "The Christmas Oratorio," in 1729. Beethoven was the first to realize the true importance of the tympani. The cymbals are from Arabian or Turkish sources. The tambourine and castanets are of Spanish origin. The other instruments may easily be traced to barbaric countries. The drums and tambourine belong to the same family and likewise perform about the same mission in the orchestra, the drums being the most positive quality of action, and the other instruments of percussion being given the part of accenting the rhythm, heightening the dramatic coloring and creating stronger nationalism.

The modern pianoforte, the solo instrument of the orchestra, has in its evolution passed through the stages of the viol family, the harp family and the dulcimer family, gradually discarding all their methods of tone production for the present day use. The harp is found among nearly every ancient race that possessed any instruments. The Irish claim to have originated the harp, but the Assyrian instruments were certainly of earlier date. It was the Irish harp that was taken back to Italy by the Roman legion returning from Britain, and its use in the Apulian city of Arpi possibly gave the instrument its name. The modern concert harp is due to the work of Sebastian Erard, who perfected it in the year 1810. The harp did not appear in the earlier orchestras.

Saratoga Has Come Back

BY JULIA HOYT

Saratoga in its palmy days? Yes, but they have returned, says Julia Hoyt.

(Copyright, 1924, in United States and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All Rights Reserved.)

Saratoga is quite different from either Newport or Southampton. It more nearly resembles a European summer resort than any other in America. A good many years ago Saratoga was extremely fashionable, then it fell somewhat out of favor, but again in the last few years it has come back decidedly. I enjoy it more for a short while than any other so-called gay place in America. However, it must be extremely fond of horse racing to like it and must resign oneself to do without bathing; Saratoga's real drawback.

It resembles European resorts for the reason that it combines hotel and private house life, and also because much of the entertaining is done at a large hotel—the United States. Before prohibition there was a delightful casino where everyone dined and danced, but that no longer exists. The hotels are nearly as modern or as handsome as those at Deauville, for instance. In fact, they are extremely ugly, having been built in the worst period in American architecture. But they have an unquestioned atmosphere about them; a quality much more valuable and attractive than perhaps uninteresting modernism. In fact, all of Saratoga is full of atmosphere. The houses have it, the race course has it and, incidentally, it is much the prettiest race course in the north.

To me the life is delightful; exercise in the morning, watching horse racing in the afternoon (which keep one in the open air); dancing or bridge in the evening. There, as abroad, one sees all types of people; every Saturday there are new friends to talk to and new faces to see. On Sunday, as there is no racing, it is possible to motor nearby and have the longest-for-bath.

There is a feeling of gaiety, of being off on a spree when one is in Saratoga that I, at least, neither have in either Newport or Southampton. I have heard many other people say the same thing.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE CHILD IN THE GARDEN.

When to the garden of untroubled thought I came of late, and saw the open door,

And wished again to enter, and explore The sweet, wild ways with stainless bloom inwrought,

And bowers of innocence with beauty fraught, It seemed some purer voice must speak before

I dared to tread that garden loved of yore, That Eden lost unknown and found unsought.

Then just within the gate I saw a child—A stranger-child, yet to my heart most dear—

Who held his hands to me and softly smiled With eyes that knew no shade of sin or fear;

"Come in," he said, "and play awhile with me; I am the little child you used to be."

Advance of Over Four Cents Seen in Wednesday's Trading

Chicago, October 15.—Sharp new upturns in the price of wheat resulted today from continued export buying on a large scale. It was estimated that between 6,000,000 bushels and 7,000,000 bushels of wheat had been bought since Saturday for shipment to Europe. Wheat closed buoyant, 4 to 4 1/2 net higher, December, 1.51 to 1.51 5/8 and May 1.55 3/4 to 1.55 7/8, with corn showing 1 1/8 to 1 7/8 gain, oats 1 3/8 to 2 1/8 up and provisions were 7 to 7 1/2 cents decline to 22 cents advance.

Notwithstanding some hesitancy which was evident here at the opening and which was ascribed to lower quotations at Liverpool, the wheat market in Chicago soon began to climb, and the finish was virtually at the day's top figures, about 8 cents above the minimum opening. In addition to activity to export demand, the chief strengthening factor was increasing complaint of drought and crop in Argentina, and the crop outlook more and more disquieting.

GERMAN BONDS SEE NEW HIGH RECORD

Something of a stampede on the part of recent speculative sellers of wheat was apparent as the day drew to an end, with broadened interest buying accelerated on account of the extraordinary sustained purchasing for Europe. In connection with the European buying, special notice was taken of reports that the Italian crop would be 55,000,000 bushels less than last year's total and that France would have to buy about 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 bushels. Advances were not at all unexpected, and the crop Canadian wheat was grading low and difficulties might be looked for in filling contracts for October delivery at Winnipeg.

Corn and oats gathered most of their strength from wheat. A good deal of attention, however, was given to predictions that husking returns would prove a disappointment. The outlook, too, was for less favorable weather than has been the rule of late. Provisions averaged higher, sympathizing with grain.

The Investor

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT
The deal just completed between the United Light and Power company and the Continental Gas and Electric corporation and the subsequent issue of bonds of the latter corporation form an interesting chapter in the history of the development of public utilities in the Middle West.

While this is a major development, it cannot rightfully be termed a merger. What actually happened is that the United Light and Power company has purchased 75,000 shares of the 109,057 shares of the common stock of the Continental Gas and Electric corporation and 35,000 additional treasury shares, thus obtaining in excess of 75 per cent of the entire outstanding common stock capital.

No Change in Management.
The United Light and Power company through this purchase acquires the control of two large public utility companies which have an excellent record for stability and growth, including a number of smaller and well-managed properties. The United Light and Power company will be the dominant factor in the situation, but there will be no change in the management of the Continental corporation. The bringing together under one head of the two large corporations has a distinct value in that it spells progress and a great saving in operating expenses. The men on both sides who now will work together are young, progressive and experienced, and already plans are being worked out to acquire additional properties which will complete the chain in the states of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

The United Light and Power company succeeded a corporation of similar name organized in 1910, when a number of the western public utilities were consolidated. The company has grown from a gross revenue of approximately $800,000 to over $12,500,000. It has been the policy of the company gradually to retire the securities of its subsidiaries or operating companies, and in so doing has placed its own securities in a strong investment position. As of August 31 last there were outstanding $6,964,300 of underlying company bonds and $1,632,700 of subsidiary company bonds, largely preferred, as against physical property values exceeding $6,000,000.

The Continental Gas and Electric corporation is a holding company organized in 1912, and it controls a group of electric power and light companies operating in four states and Canada and serving 162 growing communities. The companies controlled are Kansas City Power and Light company, the Nebraska Gas and Electric company, the Kansas City Gas and Electric corporation, the Columbus Railway, Power and Light company, the Iowa Service company, the Lincoln Gas and Electric Light company and the Marysville Electric Light and Power company.

Purpose of Financing.
The proceeds from the sale of bonds, together with the proceeds from the sale of preferred and common stocks, will be used by the Continental Gas and Electric corporation to acquire practically the entire remaining outstanding shares and 25,000 additional treasury shares of the Kansas City Power Securities corporation (owning 100 per cent of the outstanding common shares of the Kansas City Power and Light company) and not less than 75 per cent of the common shares and a substantial interest in the preferred shares of the Columbus Railway, Power and Light company and to provide funds for the acquisition of additional securities of controlled companies.

The issue will be the direct obligation of the Continental Gas and Electric corporation and will be secured by deposit and pledge of securities of subsidiaries acquired and to be acquired. Net earnings accruing directly to the collateral securing this issue for the twelve months ended June 30 were equal to more than three times the annual interest charges on the bonds. This is a record for the company, and the common stocks which have a present market value of more than $24,000,000. Cash dividends have been paid on the preferred stock uninterrupted since the organization in 1912. Dividends in cash and in stock are being paid on the common stock.

Weekly Weather and Crop Summary of Cotton Belt
Washington, Oct. 15.—Crop and weather conditions in southern states during the week ending yesterday were summarized today by the department of agriculture as follows:

The week was practically rainless throughout the cotton belt, except for showers in the northwestern portion, which, together with favorable temperatures, made unusually good harvest. The week was generally favorable for cotton. Opening and picking began in some localities.

North Carolina.—Abundant sunshine and moderate temperatures favorable for crops. Cotton opening better and picking general; condition mostly poor and many bolls rotten.

South Carolina.—Condition of cotton poor to fair; crop practically all open, except in northern tier of counties; picking and ginning progressing favorably and picking nearing completion in some southern sections.

Better Georgia Weather.
Georgia—Very favorable harvesting weather. Condition of cotton unsatisfactory, but picking and ginning making rapid progress. Cotton opening better and picking general; condition mostly poor and many bolls rotten.

Mississippi.—Abundant sunshine; generally dry. Very good progress in picking and ginning cotton with excellent seasonal advancement toward completion.

Louisiana.—Excellent progress in picking and ginning cotton; all picked in many sections; condition mostly poor and many bolls rotten.

Alabama.—Picking cotton retarded somewhat by rain, but satisfactory progress in most sections with yield and quality good; fairly good top crop coming on in most sections.

Arkansas.—Dry weather very favorable for cotton, which is opening better and picking nearly all open in south and central; greater portion open in north.

Tennessee.—Mild weather fine for cotton, but too dry for growth. Condition of cotton generally fair to good; mostly open and being gathered rapidly; making some top crop.

Kentucky.—Weather favorable for cotton, which is opening better and picking nearly all open in south and central; greater portion open in north.

West Virginia.—Weather favorable for cotton, which is opening better and picking nearly all open in south and central; greater portion open in north.

Rains Hurt Citrus.
The heavy rains were unfavorable for citrus fruit in Florida. The fruit is being split and dropping and some groves flooded. Initial shipments of lemons and grapefruit were made from Florida.

There was some frost damage to late truck and tomatoes in the Appalachian mountains, and it was too late in the season for the fruit to be marketed. The fruit was being split and dropping and some groves flooded. Initial shipments of lemons and grapefruit were made from Florida.

THE GUMPS—EVER FAIR PORTLAND

Red Riding Hood

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.
Mrs. Morgan Schuyler, one of New York's leading philanthropic and social lights, and her family are the subject of a young woman's work in her apartment. The advertisement is answered by a girl evidently of birth and breeding. In spite of the fact that she admits a desire to hide her identity, Mrs. Schuyler accepts her on trust and takes her with her to her home.

Mrs. Schuyler's family consists of her mother, Mrs. Van Dorn; a young brother, Jim Van Dorn, and an older brother, Bertie, who is away.

The second morning of her employment Hope faints after receiving a mysterious telephone call. Mrs. Schuyler summons Dr. Horace Osborne. Hope tells the doctor she is employed during the afternoon hours on East Seventieth street. He offers to drive her there. By a strange coincidence the doctor has an appointment at the house where Hope is employed. He has been called in consultation with two other doctors. The patient is a boy of five years, about whom the entire household mysteriously revolves, the closest guardian being an uncle named Scarwenka. All of the members of this household are foreigners except Hope, who is known here as Sonia. A day or two later a mysterious visitor, Colonel Van Saanen, a man of obvious importance, calls at the Seventieth street house. Hope distrusts him.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.
A REVELATION AND A RELIEF.

The child returned to his task of vengeance, biting and kicking like a tiny wild thing gone mad. For a moment Van Saanen, overwhelmed by the unlooked for onslaught, had made no defense. Now, however, he caught the avenger and suspended him out at arm's length, a foot above the ground, the child's legs still kicking the air in an effort to reach him. He held the boy firmly and easily, as if the forty pounds of struggling Tartar had been as many ounces, and as he did so he looked at the child with a smile. It was a smile as unpleasant as any utterance could be, and after one glance at it Hope brought her hand down on his shoulder.

"You will not hurt him," she said, and the words were a command.

Beside it the small owner sat, murmuring encouragement.

not a plea. Neither was her manner that of one who had just been brought to heel. She took the Tartar from the man's hands, and the boy, now whimpering with rage and exhaustion, permitted himself to be led through the door and into the hall. There Hope closed the door and knelt to kiss and comfort him. She was the only person in the strange household who ever showed him this attention, and now, as always, the Tartar responded to her tenderness. His black head buried itself in her shoulder, and his fierce black eyes closed wearily. Suddenly he was all baby. He sobbed jerkily while Hope dried his tears with her handkerchief, wiped his little nose, and tried to calm him.

"We'll make the puppy well again, if we can," she promised, "and if we can't I'll buy you a new dog."

"I don't want a new dog," the boy wailed, but he clung to her gratefully.

Scarwenka appeared at the end of the hall, and she summoned him to the conference with a nod.

"How about the dog?"

She asked the question over the child's head with lips that barely moved, but Scarwenka replied in a voice intended to reassure the child as well as the questioner.

"It will take time," he reported, "but the dog will get well."

The black eyes of the Tartar opened again. He had been keeping them closed in an effort to control the tears he was shedding for the puppy, tears his own pain could not have drawn from him. His plump chest rose in a long, quivering breath of relief. Things were not so bad then, after all. He pulled at the girl's hand.

"Let's go and see him," he sniffed; but Hope remembered the waiting visitor.

"Your uncle will take you. I'll come later—as soon as I can."

Scarwenka came closer and offered a hand to the child, further confirming the arrangement with a nod. His face, usually merely a rather stupid mask, had more expression in it than she had ever seen there. As he led the boy away he glanced at the closed door between the hall and the study, and the look in his eyes was to the observer both a revelation and a relief. Hope was now certain that Scarwenka did not like the newcomer, that, indeed, his feeling for Van Saanen was similar to her own.

She went back into the study with eyes steady and head high, and the visitor, erect beside a window and gazing out at the gathering snow-storm with his drawn, blind look, saw the change as soon as he turned to face her. She was no longer afraid of him, though she had been much afraid of him five minutes ago. In short, she had been where he wanted her, till the episode of the brat had diverted her mind from her own affairs. Now she was defiant and reckless and ready to make trouble. The look in her brown eyes when she ordered him not to hurt the child had been the look of a woman sure of herself. Yes, great care would now be necessary, and for the need of this he had only himself to thank—himself and that hot temper of his. One could never tell what such a girl would do. He bowed in stiff acknowledgement of her return.

"We appear to have completed our work," he observed. "I have waited only to have the pleasure of bidding Mademoiselle Strelenski au revoir."

Hope inclined her head. It was hard to speak to the man, but neither must she openly affront him.

"The report, then, is satisfactory?" she brought out at last, trying to speak naturally.

"Entirely," Van Saanen moved toward the door. "Will you be good enough to ring for the excellent Scarwenka? It is necessary to have a word with him before I go."

She pressed a button on her desk. It was one of a system of signals, taking in, seemingly, every room in the house, and with which she could at any time summon either Scarwenka or Mahal. They were obviously intended for use in case of danger, but in six months she had never found it necessary to touch any button save the one on her desk, and this only on those occasions when the real masters of the house called for reports and the Scarwenkas, supposedly its masters, suddenly reverted to servants and answered bell calls in that role.

Today Scarwenka responded with surprising promptness. He was on the threshold almost before her fingers had left the button. She wondered if he had returned there to listen. She had plenty of time to consider the point, for Van Saanen, after another formal bow, left the study, intimating with a gesture that Scarwenka was to follow him.

Remembering her promise, Hope went in search of the Tartar and his stricken pet. She found the two young things in a basement room, of which Alexandre had quietly taken possession as a supplementary playground on stormy days. It was lit only by two rear windows looking out on the garden, but it was warm and comfortable and the Tartar's varied assortment of mechanical toys lent it color and atmosphere. In the foreground an impressive group met her eyes. The puppy lay in a large basket, one leg bandaged, its active body held to its comfortable prison by carefully arranged strips of flannel. Beside it the small owner sat, murmuring encouragement and clutching a large dog biscuit, of which he and the animal took alternate bites. At intervals he offered it a refreshing draught from a bowl of milk. From a little distance a black cat that had recently come over the wall uninvited and determinedly remained a member of the family followed this sybaritic scene with jealous green eyes. The puppy's round, adoring gaze was on his master. He seemed comfortable though somewhat surprised by his enforced inactivity. The Tartar was so absorbed that he did not hear Hope's approach until she stood beside him.

"Buster feels well," he then unctuously announced, and raised happy eyes to her. "He says he feels well."

Buster confirmed the favorable report with a sharp bark, and Hope added herself to the picture with the intention of explaining to the small boy that very special care was needed in handling little dogs with injured legs. To her surprise young Alexandre had already been thoroughly and intelligently coached on this point by Scarwenka.

"Uncle Gheorge knows everything," the child mentioned, and his companion, who had not suspected this omniscience in the heavy faced man, passed the claim with a smile. Scarwenka certainly knew something about the care of injured puppies. She was to learn that he knew more than she suspected about certain other matters, and that he was willing to share his knowledge.

Finding herself an honored guest at the party, she deliberately lingered with the child and the dog. Her day's work was done, and the prospect of an hour or two of introspection in the study was not enticing. Neither was the alternate prospect of returning to the Schuylers and indulging in introspection there. In her present mood no book could hold her attention, and the storm forbade the long walk she had planned to take in the hope of so exhausting herself that sleep might follow. What she needed was the society of the dog and the baby.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF PORTLAND—THIS IS THE SUPREME SECOND OF MY CAREER—ADDRESSING YOU IS JUST LIKE TALKING TO A CROWD OF OLD FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS. I HAVE NOT THE HIGH HONOR OF CLAIMING THIS CITY AS MY BIRTHPLACE BUT MY GREAT GRANDFATHER CAME HERE AS GUIDE TO THE LEWIS AND CLARK EXPEDITION AND WHEN HE GOT TO PORTLAND HE KNEW THE JOURNEY WAS OVER—MY GRANDFATHER ALWAYS SAID WHEN THE ANGELS SAW A GUY IN HEAVEN WITH A HOMESICK LOOK ON HIS FACE THEY KNEW HE WAS FROM PORTLAND—

WHEN I HEAR PEOPLE TALKING ABOUT THE BEST CITY IN THE WORLD I KNOW THEY MEAN PORTLAND—WHERE CAN YOU FIND BETTER LIVING CONDITIONS, BETTER CLIMATE, BETTER PEOPLE, BETTER ANYTHING? THE ANSWER IS, NO WHERE—MY FATHER ALWAYS SAID HE'D RATHER BE IN JAIL IN PORTLAND THAN BE MAYOR OF SEATTLE—AND HIS GOOD JUDGMENT.

WHEN I REALIZE I HAVE THE UNITED SUPPORT OF THIS CITY I KNOW THE BATTLE IS ALREADY WON—I SHOULD WORRY ABOUT WHAT HAPPENS NOW—PORTLAND IS THE POLITICAL BELL WETHER OF AMERICA—THE REST OF THE NATION FOLLOWS PORTLAND LIKE SHEEP FOLLOW THEIR LEADER—WHEN THE PEOPLE OF PORTLAND SELECT ME AS THEIR CHOICE IT'S JUST LIKE BEING HAND-CUFFED TO THE PRESIDENTIAL CHAIR.

Philanthropic Work.
In my bungalow there are numerous mice which I am, at the expense of my time, teaching and educating that they may not lead monotonous lives. I purchased cheese and break it into small bits and make way to the attic of my bungalow. I spread the cheese on the floor neatly, not to say artistically. Then I descend the stairs again, carefully closing the door in order that my mice may be quiet. After I have gone the mice come out and eat the cheese. At first, I know, they are cautious, they fear a trap, but there is no trap, and they hastily devour all the cheese, and then celebrate by running through the walls of my bungalow all night. This is their way of thanking me.

The next night I do the same, but this time I leave something else. The mice are no longer cautious: "Are we not all alive?" they ask each other. And so they become quite reckless.

The next morning I go up in my attic, and in each of the traps I usually find a good looking mouse. Their struggles were brief.

I feel that I am doing a very philanthropic work with my mice in saving them from monotonous lives!

All summer in the country The gypsy life for me. I queued it on the golf links. Was a mermaid in the sea. I cultivated freckles. Put on a coat of tan: For wide and open spaces I surely was a fan.

But now I'm in the city. And sorry is my plight. When I would wear my glad rags I am a perfect sight. I've used cold creams and lotions, In vain I've tried them all, For it's different in the autumn When the sleeves begin to fall.

Pro and Con of Nudity Goes Before Justice Bar Today

JUDGE MUST DEFINE WHAT IS "NAUGHTY"

BY RODNEY F. DUTCHER.

New York, October 15.—The crudity of nudity, if any, will be threshed out in a courtroom Thursday when Earl Carroll, a Broadway producer, goes on trial for displaying allegedly naughty pictures in front of one of his theaters.

This brings a crisis, a struggle of titans, as critics and titans go on Broadway. It may determine whether the stern but protecting arm of the law will be permitted to rush to the rescue with a shawl and save the dressing rooms along the Rialto from definitely becoming dressing rooms in name only.

The law has promised to take the shawl back stage if it wins the Carroll case. Meanwhile, the competition among producers is so strenuous that if the law loses, it may be but a question of hours before the costume outfit is totally eliminated as one of the expenses of production. Artists and models, a show which aroused all but the blind last year, was to open Wednesday night, promising newer and more drastic sensations. Insignificant costumes continue to be used in other shows, but all too often, they might as well be held out at arm's length.

One of the last figures observed lamming it out of the public library Wednesday night was a tired assistant district attorney with a heavy sheaf of notes. He had been preparing for the Carroll case by reading up on medieval artists who probably will be in the line on the Carroll case. Howard Chandler Christy and several other metropolitans artists will testify in behalf of Carroll that the nude is neither rude nor crude, that to the pure all things are pure and evil to him who evil thinks.

The original pictures are still in place now, but have been decorated

SMOOT URGES VOTERS TO DEFEAT BROOKHART

Washington, October 15.—Republicans of Iowa were advised today by Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, and one of the republican leaders of the senate to vote against Senator Brookhart, republican nominee for re-election.

"Speaking for myself as a republican I would, if a resident of Iowa, vote against Senator Brookhart," said the Utah senator. "I am uncompromisingly opposed to the election on the republican ticket of men who are republicans only one day every six years."

Senator Brookhart is opposed to President Coolidge and to General Daves, our party candidate, and has repeatedly shown by his vote in the senate that he will not support the republican party in its legislative program. Such a man from any point of view is not entitled to any consideration at the hands of the republican party and I would never be willing to aid in giving him any preference or consideration as a republican in the distribution of chairmanships and committee assignments."

Childhood Days!

YOU remember them! You recall those glorious days in the old orchard—the sunlight, the shadowy paths through the woods. Happy, joyous, carefree days when you dug in the yard; climbed trees; explored unknown parts of the neighborhood.

But your children—? Are they "Captain Kids" and "Cowboys and Indians"? Are they getting healthful, body-building exercise? Have they enormous appetites and an insatiable desire for exploration?

No—not if they are apartment dwellers. Children are born imitators. Apartment house children are like apartment house elders. They are content to become modern novel readers and Mah Jongg fiends!

Bring your family to ANSLEY PARK EXTENSION. A cozy home; ample ground; plenty of playing space. Terms like rent. Call us today.

What is "best grade?"

When some dealers quote prices for "best grade" coal, it often means they will deliver the best grade they have in stock—not the best on the market.

Remember that when asking for comparative or competitive prices.

Our best grade is Monteville—the genuine, and it is the very best domestic coal on the market. Then Action, Crouch and Larkin, in the order named.

The Ballard Make

Not a department, cut rate, or just as good for less money, but the best of everything. The best price and the best service possible, is responsible for the growth of our business—in fact, the majority of our better oculists are glad when you tell them you want Ballard to fill your glass prescription. Just ask them. We have filled their prescriptions for many years and they know how we do business. There is no use going to a first-class oculist and then have your glasses made by a second-class optician. There never was a time when the market was so flooded with imperfect ground glasses. We are in position to take care of your wants to the limit for high-class optical service.

If you do not know us ask someone who does.
